CHESTER ASKS ALIENISTS TO EXAMINE SNOOK

Prosecutor Moves To Offset Possibility of Defense on Insanity Plea

PROF TO FIGHT CHAIR

Accused Slayer Indicted by Grand Jury, Arraignment Due Monday

BY JAMES L KILGALLEN
Marion Star Staff Writer

COLUMBUS June 22 — Three alienists were appointed by Prosecuting Attorney John J Chester today to examine the mental condition of Lowell H Snook deposed Ohio State university professor who confessed the murder of Miss Theora Hix 21-year old co-ed

The alienists are Dr William H Hall superintendent of the State hospital for the Insane and two Columbus physicians Dr Earl E Gauver and Dr Bert B Tarbell

The three Cabb will examine Snook at the county jail late this afternoon Their appointment by the court was a precautionary measure to offset the possibility that the defense will attempt an insanity defense at his trial

To Fight Chair

Lowell Snook today executed a complete about face and is now plunged battle to escape the electric chair

The 48-year old former Ohio State university professor no longer wants to die all over with He wants to live his skin

He pleaded not guilty when arraigned Monday in spite of the fact that he made a confession admitting that the girl whose body he had been found with bears a bullet hole in her head which he says she received when he struck her with a gun during a struggle with her after they had quarreled over his refusal to marry her

Police Question Snook's Motive

COLUMBUS June 22—The motive for James H Snook former Ohio state university professor, gave in a confession as his reason for the murder of Miss Theora Hix young co-ed was much discussed in police circles here Some police officials doubted the motive given and believed that Snook had not told the truth

Others said what they regarded as discrepancies in Snook's confession like the fact that Miss Hix when they quarreled over his announced intention of spending the week-end with his parents instead of with him indicated that she threatened to kill herself and baby if left the city for the week-end he said

Those others who are skeptical point out that in his story of the murder Snook said Miss Hix had exerted such a powerful influence over the professor

EXPORT DEBENTURE RIDER PREDICTED

Senator Brookhart Declares Provision Will Be Tacked Onto Tariff Bill

WASHINGTON June 22—With a major war over the tariff to ming in the senate between progressives and conservatives Senator Smith W Brookhart Republican of Iowa today predicted adoption of the export debenture plan of farm relief as a rider on the new tariff bill

The new debenture provision offered as an amendment to the tariff bill by Senator Norris Republican of Nebraska Insurgent leader differs slightly from the plan twice approved by the senate during the farm relief battle Where the original plan provided for payment of the debentures to farmers—thus making them easily accessible to importers—they would be paid to the new federal farm board under the Norris plan on all surplus crops exported

Brookhart declared this new disposition of the debentures would act as an 'equalization fee' to finance the operation of the farm board and its numerous stabilization corporations The debentures would be paid as a rebate out of tariff revenues and have been defended by their advocates as the only means of equalizing the tariff between industry and agriculture

PAIR IS HELD AFTER PARTIES AT PROSPECT

Louis Parthemore Under $2,500 Bond, Mrs. Gladys Rogers $1,000

HEARINGS MONDAY

Complaints of Citizens in County Village Result in Delinquency Charges

Louis Parthemore 21 and Mrs Gladys Rogers charged with contributing to the delinquency of two Prospect school girls are in county jail awaiting their hearing before Juvenile Judge Oscar Gast next Monday

Both Parthemore and Mrs Rogers entered pleas of not guilty when arraigned before Judge Gast late yesterday afternoon Bail for Parthemore was set at $2,500 Mrs Rogers bond was set at $1,000 Neither was able to provide for release

The arrest of Parthemore and Mrs Rogers followed complaints by Prospect citizens The affidavit filed for Parthemore's arrest charged that he provided liquor for all night parties attended by the two minor girls Mrs Rogers is charged with harboring and shielding the girls against the desire of their parents

Citizens Complain

The parties referred to in the affidavits were held at the residence of Bill Northrup in a wooded Bucyrus road two miles north of Prospect Prospect residents say that the boys and girls have been seen about the place drunk and half clad

Apparently no effort has been made to conceal the activities of the merry makers Their acts have come to the town's ears The parties came to a sudden halt however when Prospect citizens filed complaints before Judge Gast

Officers Find Liquor

The affidavits for the arrest of Parthemore and Mrs Rogers were filed by O H Wheeles H E Thomas mayor of Prospect attended the preliminary hearings yesterday afternoon

Parthemore was arrested by Sheriff John E Francis and Deputies Roy Chapman and Fred Williams Following the arrest the officers proceeded to search for liquor The sheriff had been provided with a search warrant as well as a warrant for Parthemore's arrest on the delinquency charges before leaving Marion

A search in the vicinity of the Northrup house revealed a five gallon can two one gallon cans and seven pints of alleged liquor Four one gallon cans which apparently

BRIEFS ORDERED IN ZONING TEST CASE

Wolfel Seeks Court Order Authorizing Construction of Filling Station

Common pleas court decision on the R C Wolfel mandamus action against S H Keller city clerk will be based on briefs to be submitted to the court by Attorney Hoke Donithen and City Solicitor George T Geran

Hearing on the mandamus action was held yesterday before Judge George B Schofield of the common pleas court After hearing the testimony Judge Schofield asked the attorneys to submit briefs in place of arguments before the court

Wolfel brought mandamus action against the city clerk to force him to issue a building permit for a filling station to be erected at the corner of Main and Columbia sts The action was brought after the city planning commission and city council refused to grant Wolfel permission to erect the station

The suit is expected to test the legality of the city zoning ordinance In the petition, which was drawn by Attorney Donithen who represents Wolfel, it is claimed that the ordinance was not legally passed

The district in which Wolfel proposed to erect the filling station is now in what is known as the residential section of the city The planning commission refused to transfer the territory to the commercial section in order to permit the erection of the station

The city won a point in the hearing yesterday when Judge Schofield admitted testimony only in regard to the claim that the ordinance was not legally passed The ruling in regard to the testimony was made when Attorney Donithen prepared to introduce evidence that the city had not complied with provisions of the ordinance after its passage

He Picked Wrong Porch For His Firecrackers

COLUMBUS, June 22—Because he tossed a lighted two-inch firecracker on the porch of Chief of Police A A Antle, of Bexley a suburban village here Norman Loewenstein today is free under $25 bond after being charged with the violation of the village's municipal 'firecracker' law

It is said that he drove his car with his knees and used his hands to light and throw the boomers.

Hundreds Respond To Appeals For Help For Boy With Dread Disease

Telephone, Wire and Write They Are Willing To Give Blood For Lad Hovering Between Life and Death, Malady Destroys Red Corpuscles

NEW YORK June 22 They call at the city where such is even but

There is a 13-year-old youngster George Mosher who is today hovering between life and death from the dread typhoid blood fever

George is out of luck His father is incapacitated through an accident The boy's mother is dead There is no money to provide the regular ill transfusions which is urgent if George is to live

It is a strange disease to logically called Infanzer and is the only known case in this country The malady destroys the red corpuscles

A public call for volunteers to give their blood to the dying lad was sounded

And the city they say where a body cares responded

Hundreds telephoned wired and wrote that they would be willing to give their blood

Dora Jane Kane the professional blood giver stepped forward

'The boy's case has touched me,' wrote Jane I am willing to give him as many transfusions as he needs to make him a well and healthy boy, of course I do not want a red cent for anything I can do'

Contributions amounting to date to $500 have been received at the Seaside hospital New Dorp, Staten Island to aid George

Two wealthy men who wished to remain anonymous offered to pay full medical expenses

A childish voice called the hospital on the telephone and asked whether a collection taken up by the pupils of Jamestown High school for George should be mailed or sent by telegraph

ELECTRIC COMPANY ANSWERS LETTER

FEAR TROUBLE OVER GUNFIRE ON RUM FRONT

International Complications Between Canada and U. S. Appear Imminent Today

BOTH SIDES "PEEVISH"

Have Grievances Over Firing on Boats as Result of Liquor Drive

WASHINGTON, June 22 — Canadian and American officials, who deal with the troublesome Detroit sector in the never-ending smuggling war, appeared today to be engaging in a race for evidence with which to support their grievances

Secretary of State Stimson has obtained from the treasury a report on the firing at a U S customs patrol boat from Canadian waters

Canadian authorities are getting evidence in the case of firing on Canadian pleasure craft from American waters

The expectation prevails here that a series of notes between the two governments will be the next step, for the evidence which officials of both governments are collecting is intended to afford the basis of representations

Asks for Report

Up to the present the Canadian government has had the advantage of the American state department in the grievance business because of the Jim Alex case which still is unsettled The American government has been on the defensive and the state department has been almost eagerly awaiting an opportunity to assume the aggressive in the rum running controversy It was for this reason that Secretary Stimson lost no time in asking the treasury for a report on the alleged shooting up of an American customs boat Stimson acted as soon as he heard of the affair in the newspapers Canadian officials, meanwhile, are similarly alert

WAR COMPLICATIONS WITH CANADA

DETROIT, June 22—International complications between United States and Canadian authorities appeared imminent today following reports that Alfred Cushy deputy commissioner of the Ontario provincial police, would inform W H Price, Ontario attorney-general that rum running U S customs agents are forbidden to prosecute smuggling in Canadian waters

Cushy was to make his report to Price in Toronto today following his investigation of recent gunplay episodes on the Detroit river

The Canadian official said that several complaints had been made to him that American patrol boats guarding the 18-mile liquor warfront here, have

TAKE 558 IN RAID ON GAMBLING HOUSE

Police Forced To Distribute Them Over Outlying Jail Houses

CHICAGO June 22—Five hundred fifty eight men the largest number ever seized here in one place, were in cells and were to be examined at the bureau of identification today after they were seized in a raid conducted upon an alleged gambling house early today in Cicero

So great was the number that they were distributed over outlying police stations until wagons can be summoned today to convey them to central police headquarters

Two men George Kelly and Alfred Orlando, were booked by police as keepers

Driver Falls Asleep, Car Ditched, Man Dead

COLUMBUS, June 22—A Columbus man was killed, and three persons, including the dead man's wife were injured in an automobile accident near Jackson, Mich, yesterday, according to word received by relatives here today.

Albert Sheff, 51, who resides on the West Side here sustained fatal injuries. His wife suffered a fractured leg and jaw.

William Seibert 51, of Cleveland, a brother-in-law of Sheff, was driving the car and is said to have fallen asleep. The car careened into a ditch

Prince of Wales To Be 35 Years Old on Sunday

Sir Esme's Faux Pas.
MacDonald Reads Hazlitt.
Some Flying
J. P Morgan Groceries

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

SIR ESME HOWARD may have been right when he promised the British embassy dry But he was very wrong on Thursday when he consulted privately with Senator Borah about reduction of the freedom of the seas and closer ties between this country and Great Britain

Senator Borah is head of the senate committee on foreign affairs and ought to talk to anybody

Sir Esme Howard is accredited ambassador not to Senator Borah, but to President Hoover and the United States government

Foreign ambassadors if they have things to say, are supposed to say to the state department, or the president

The Esme Howard Borah talk resembled incident of Citizen Genet to President Hoover were fussed, Esme might find himself persona non grata

RAMSAY MACDONALD flying from Scotland to London in a three-motored plane, a parachute tied over his leather flying coat and Hazlitt on the way

Hazlitt who worked himself into a fever over the French revolution and argued with everybody that did not agree with him little thought that in 100 years of his death a Socialist Laborite would be prime minister of England without any revolution

Nevertheless did Hazlitt imagine that a Scotch Labor Prime Minister would go to work

Max D Steuer, brilliant New York lawyer says the best cure for any disease fears death is Hazlitt's remedy

South

Hazlitt says that since we are mortal because we were not alive billions of years ago we should not worry because we won't be alive or conscious billions of years hence

The first time Ramsay MacDonald was Prime Minister of England was in the Labor party, he met serious and disastrous strikes in its history

Now he comes to office a second time Labor election mill owners announce reductions in wages affecting 900 spinners

RAMON FRANCO with three companions, started from Spain yesterday morning hoping to reach the Azores at 4:30 p m today From the Azores he comes here to fly back from Halifax to northern Spain

Ten days will be devoted to the ocean round trip, including a visit to Washington

On this side of the ocean Miss Viola Gentry flew up to break the nonstop refueling record if possible

"BABE" MEIGS of Chicago so called because he is six and one half feet high flew from Chicago to New York and yesterday at the Ritz Carlton told Henry Ford sitting at the next table that his (Lord's) airplane that Meigs bought a year ago is as good as any made

Mr Ford was pleased but was more interested in getting from Meigs for the Ford Museum the engine of an old steam threshing machine that Meigs used to drive when he was 10 years old on his father's farm

Mr Ford looked remarkably well and resisted only feebly when Theodore, the Ritz Carlton boss, insisted on feeding him fancy breast of chicken, made abnormally white by something smeared over it

J PIERPONT MORGAN's favorite secretary engineer of big mergers has put together, in a little $430,000,000 concern several important food producing companies Other companies may join the merger, creating an interesting situation for chain stores

At present special brands are somewhat at the mercy of chain store owners, who tell manufacturers what to produce, what to charge, what profit they may have.

A big enough food combine might be able to tell chain stores what they must do.

The humble cow is in a milk combine, the spreading chestnut tree and blacksmith shop have been changed to a small garage. The blacksmith is working for Big Steel and ruminated by J P Morgan's father Now the corner grocery becomes a bullet in a rapid fire food machine.

AMERICANS LEAD

Called Most Inventive People In World; Germans Are Second

BERLIN—Americans are the most inventive people in the world. The German come next. The British come far behind as third and the French are a very bad fourth.

This is revealed by statistics about patent applications in the various countries compiled by Dr. Heinrich Goldbeck, Berlin, a patent attorney. The number of patent applications in the various countries in 1927 was:

United States	87,345
Germany	68,347
Great Britain	35,920
France	23,067
Japan	12,997
Canada	11,943
Italy	10 947

On the other hand, only twenty-two per cent of the German applicants were granted a patent, while seventy-five per cent of the Frenchmen and fifty-four per cent of the British were successful.

Unvarnished furniture can be polished with beeswax and turpentine.

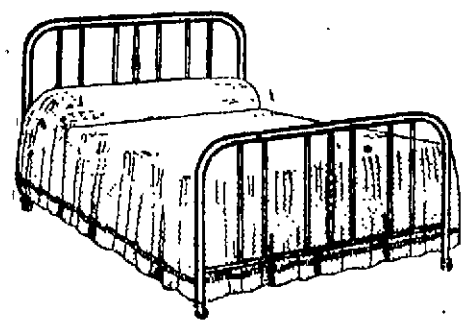
Why Toss and Turn in Uncomfortable Beds? SLEEP ON SIMMONS!

If you're "all in" when bed-time comes, and arise feeling little or no better, it will pay you well to trace down the cause. A squeaky bed, sagging springs and hard, lumpy mattress may be robbing you of the energy you need during the day. Simmons SLEEP equipment will be a revelation of comfort. Your bed-time hours will be periods of sound, uninterrupted sleep. Mornings will find you wide-eyed, alert and eager for the day's activities. Don't delay. Come in at your earliest opportunity. Start ENJOYING the sound, dreamless sleep of childhood!



Simmons All-Metal Beds

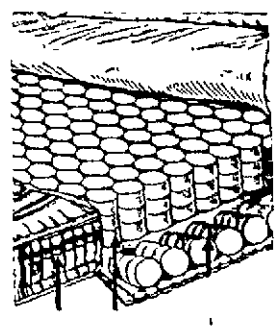
Did your own bed keep you awake last night? Did it squeak and groan every time you turned? Simmons beds are made entirely of metal—they're stronger and will last longer than wooden beds. And it's easy to keep them clean, too—just wipe off occasionally with a clean cloth to restore original lustre; no hard-to-clean crevices. Above all they're built for restful sleep—no squeaks nor groans to keep you awake.

"Beauty Rest" Mattresses

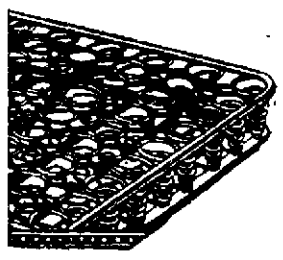
bed to find a comfortable spot. Any position you lie in you find it comfortable on a "Beauty Rest."

You do more than sleep, every muscle of your tired body is relaxed while hundreds of tiny coils gently support your figure and conform to your slightest change in position.

If you're of average weight, below average or extra heavy the "Beauty Rest" will adapt itself to YOU! No matter what position you lie in—no matter how much or how little you weigh your body is always supported in a natural, healthy position. It's just like sleeping on air!



Simmons Bed Springs



No more back-breaking, "hammock"-position sleeping with Simmons springs. They just won't sag. Every resilient coil depresses just the proper amount when you are in bed—bounding back into place as soon as the pressure is removed. Night after night, year after year your tired body will be grateful for the refreshing sleep that Simmons springs brought. One-third of your life is spent in bed, select the most comfortable springs made—Simmons.

EXPORT DEBENTURE RIDER PREDICTED

Senator Brookhart Declares Provision Will Be Tacked Onto Tariff Bill

WASHINGTON June 22—With a major war over the tariff looming in the senate between progressives and conservatives Senator Smith W Brookhart Republican of Iowa today predicted adoption of the export debenture plan of farm relief as a rider on the new tariff bill

The new debenture provision offered as an amendment to the tariff bill by Senator Norris Republican of Nebraska insurgent leader differs slightly from the plan twice approved by the senate during the farm relief battle Where the original plan provided for payment of the debentures to farmers—thus making them easily accessible to importers—they would be paid to the new federal farm board under the Norris plan, on all surplus crops exported

Brookhart declared this new disposition of the debentures would act as an "equalization fee" to finance the operation of the farm board and its numerous stabilization corporations The debentures would be paid as a rebate out of tariff revenues and have been defended by their advocates as the only means of equalizing the tariff between industry and agriculture

The prosecutor made a cutting remark as Counsel Hennock was examining a witness

"You are always interrupting me," said Miss Hennock, breaking into tears. "You are trying to upset me."

There, now, don't take it so hard," said the court, and adjourned the session until Monday.

PAIR IS HELD AFTER PARTIES AT PROSPECT

Louis Parthemore Under $2,500 Bond, Mrs. Gladys Rogers $1,000

HEARINGS MONDAY

Complaints of Citizens in County Village Result in Delinquency Charges

Louis Parthemore 21, and Mrs Gladys Rogers charged with contributing to the delinquency of two Prospect school girls are in county jail awaiting their hearing before Juvenile Judge Oscar Gast next Monday

Both Parthemore and Mrs Rogers entered pleas of not guilty when arraigned before Judge Gast late yesterday afternoon Bond for Parthemore was set at $2 500 Mrs Rogers bond was set at $1 000 Neither was able to provide for release

The arrest of Parthemore and Mrs Rogers followed complaints by Prospect citizens. The affidavit filed for Parthemore's arrest charged that he provided liquor for all night parties attended by the two minor girls Mrs Rogers is charged with harboring and shielding the girls against the desire of their parents

Citizens Complain

The parties referred to in the affidavits were held at the residence of Bill Northrup now serving a liquor sentence in the Delaware county jail according to complaints Parthemore is making his headquarters at the Northrup residence during the absence of the owner

For several weeks the two girls together with other youths are said to have been habitues of the Northrup residence Prospect residents say that the boys and girls have been on about the place drunk and half of the time

Apparently no effort has been made to conceal the activities of the merrymakers Their acts have come to be town gossip The parties came to a sudden halt however when Prospect citizen laid complaints before Judge Gast

Officers Find Liquor

The affidavits for the arrest of Parthemore and Mrs Rogers were filed by O H Wheeler H E Thomas mayor of Prospect attended the preliminary hearings yesterday afternoon

Parthemore was arrested by Sheriff John J Frances and Deputies Ray Chapman and Fred Williams Following the arrest the officers proceeded to search for liquor The sheriff had been provided with a search warrant as well as a warrant for Parthemore's arrest on the delinquency charges before leaving Marion

A search in the vicinity of the Northrup house revealed a two gallon can, two one gallon cans and seven pints of alleged liquor four one gallon cans which apparently

BRIEFS ORDERED IN ZONING TEST CASE

Wolfel Seeks Court Order Authorizing Construction of Filling Station

Common pleas court decision on the R C Wolfel mandamus action against S H Keller city clerk will be based on briefs to be submitted to the court by Attorney Hoke Donithen and City Solicitor George T Geran

Hearing on the mandamus action was held yesterday before Judge George B Scofield of the common pleas court After hearing the testimony Judge Scofield asked the attorneys to submit briefs in place of arguments before the court

Wolfel brought mandamus action against the city clerk to force him to issue a building permit for a filling station to be erected at the corner of Main and Columbia sts The action was brought after the city planning commission and city council refused to grant Wolfel permission to erect the station

The suit is expected to test the legality of the city zoning ordinance In the petition, which was drawn by Attorney Donithen who represents Wolfel, it is claimed that the ordinance was not legally passed

The district in which Wolfel proposed to erect the filling station is now in what is known as the residential section of the city The planning commission refused to transfer the territory to the commercial section in order to permit the erection of the station.

The city won a point in the hearing yesterday when Judge Scofield admitted testimony only in regard to the claim that the ordinance was not legally passed The ruling in regard to the testimony was made when Attorney Donithen prepared to introduce evidence that the city had not complied with provisions of the ordinance after its passage.

He Picked Wrong Porch For His Firecrackers

COLUMBUS, June 22—Because he tossed a lighted two-inch firecracker on the porch of Chief of Police A. A. Antle of Bexley, a suburban village here, Newman Loewenstein today is free under $25 bond after being charged with the violation of the village's municipal "firecracker" law.

It is said that he drove his auto with his knees and used his hands to light and throw the "boomers."

Hundreds Respond To Appeals For Help For Boy With Dread Disease

Telephone, Wire and Write They Are Willing To Give Blood For Lad Hovering Between Life and Death, Malady Destroys Red Corpuscles

NEW YORK, June 22 They call at the city where nobody cares but—

There is a 14 year old youngster, George Mosher, who is today hovering between life and death from the dread crophal blacl fever

George is out Chief His father is incapacitated through an accident The boy's mother is dead There is no money to provide the regular blood transfusions which is urgent if George is to live

It is a strange disease to be loosely called balancer and is the only known case in this country The malady destroys the red corpuscles

A public call for volunteers to give their blood to the dying lad was sounded

And the city they say where nobody cares responded

Hundreds telephoned, wired and wrote that they would be willing to give their blood

Tom Tom Kane, the professional blood giver, stepped forward

George's case has touched me," wrote Kane I am willing to give him as many transfusions as he needs to make him a well and healthy boy Of course I do not want a red cent for anything I can do"

Contributions amounting to date to $700 have been received at the Sea side hospital, New Dorp, Staten Island, to aid George

Two wealthy men, who wished to remain anonymous offered to pay full medical expenses

A childish voice called the hospital on the telephone and asked whether a collection taken up by the pupils of Jamestown High school for George should be mailed or sent by telegraph

FEAR TROUBLE OVER GUNFIRE ON RUM FRONT

International Complications Between Canada and U. S. Appear Imminent Today

BOTH SIDES "PEEVISH"

Have Grievances Over Firing on Boats as Result of Liquor Drive

WASHINGTON, June 22 — Canadian and American officials, who deal with the troublesome Detroit sector in the never ending smuggling war, appeared today to be engaging in a race for evidence with which to support their grievances

Secretary of State Stimson has obtained from the treasury a report on the firing at a U. S. customs patrol boat from Canadian waters

Canadian authorities are getting evidence in the case of firing on Canadian pleasure craft from American waters

The expectation prevails here that a series of notes between the two governments will be the next steps, for the evidence which officials of both governments are collecting is intended to affect the basis of representations.

Asks for Report

Up to the present the Canadian government has had the advantage of the American state department in the grievance business In wake of the Im Mon to C, which still is unsettled The American government has been on the defensive and the state department has been almost eagerly awaiting an opportunity to assume the aggressive in the rum running controversy It was for this reason that Secretary Stimson let no time in asking the treasury for a report on the alleged shooting up of an American customs boat Stimson acted as soon as he read of the affair in the newspapers Canadian officials, meanwhile are similarly alert

LIKELY COMPLICATIONS WITH CANADA

DETROIT, June 22 International complications between United States and Canadian authorities appeared imminent today following reports that Alfred Cuddy deputy commissioner of the Ontario provincial police, would inform W H Price, Ontario attorney general that rum warring U. S. customs agents are indulging in promiscuous gunplay in Canadian waters

Cuddy was to make his report to Price in Toronto today following his investigation of recent gunplay reported on the Detroit river

The Canadian official said that several complaints had been made to him that American patrol boats, guarding the 10 mile liquor war front here, have

It is thought probable he will pay a brief visit to the king and queen at Windsor castle sometime during the day

YOUTH'S BODY RECOVERED

MARIETTA, June 22—The body of Edmond Nolan, 17, who was drowned in the Muskingum river here last night, was recovered from the stream today by firemen. Nolan, who was unable to swim, went bathing last night. When he failed to return home, a search was instituted and his clothes were found The river was then dragged.

PROTEST TROTZKY ENTRY

WASHINGTON, June 22—A vigorous protest against any consideration being given Leon Trotzky's desire to return to the United States was lodged with Secretary of Labor Davis today by Rep Albert Johnson, Republican, of Washington, chairman of the house immigration committee.

Wanted: A Princess

Parents of Prince of Wales Go Through Royal Directory Searching For Suitable Wife; 19-Year-Old Swedish Girl Selected

BY WILL ROGERS

They bring in a Directory of all the living Royal families that are operating now

WELL all I know is what I read in the papers What do you know about the Prince of Wales getting married? Looks like the Kid is going to settle down You remember a couple of lessons back I was telling you about old Henry the 8th doing all his rough and tumble marrying Well you know these titled Birds seem to have one tradition that they are pretty jealous of and that is that it is bred into them to try and cop off a Princess if possible Course some times the Boys go out among the plebians and take a spouse to wife but they just practically ruin themselves with the rest of their family

We had a lot of Gals over here that went practically haywire when the Prince was over here, and they would practically cut off a leg to dance with him, and if he had been out strictly for names I expect he could have picked up more over here than anywhere else in the world So it does go to their credit that they don't always go out for a monetary consideration It's just as I tell you It's this Grab off a Princess' idea that is so deeply rooted in them that they are always out for that first Now take two or more Princesses and let one of them possess a little more of the World's goods than the other I am not saying that that would make any difference in his choice but she would be the one that he would pick Course that may be accidental but it always happens so there is a chance that it is premeditated

Royalty Almost Ruined

Here is the way the whole thing was done King George and Queen Mary have one of the Privy council bring in a Directory of all the living royal families that are really operating now When Russia and Germany dropped out that almost ruined the Directory they had to tear out 40 pages I don't care how royal your blood is and how far your breeding goes back if you are not at the present time employed in the business of ruling, why there is no more thought of marrying into your family than we have if all the members of a family happen to be at the time incarcerated in a jail

Now there is just thousands of Russians that are eligible and their breeding is as about as it ever was but as far as getting on with some reigning family they are just what you might call null and void Europe is especially handicapped in this present crisis as they have always used Germany as a mating ground, in fact the English family has just learned to speak what little English they do in the last couple of generations They was all Jim, and they just kept their marriages in the family a little thing like being a cousin, or an Aunt didn't stop them in the east Well you see all that available client is now out of the question The late big war not only showed that civilization don't pay but it just eliminated over 70 per cent of crop of available wives and husbands that a self respecting Prince had to pick from

Start With Italy

Well now we have them eliminated let's get back to the ones left The King and Queen take the list and go over it carefully You would think they was looking for a telephone number Instead of taking the numbers alphabetically they start down in Italy thats about as far south as you can safely pick up a wife and not take a chance on her being a little Off color You get any further south than that and you are liable to find that the hair grows out turns around and grows back in again

Now they take Italy They have an awfully nice breed of Princesses Their Mother was a Monte negroian and their Father an Italian But they cant consider them Why? On account of a Gentleman named Mussolini, they never know when he is liable to get peeved at them and declare the whole shebang a Republic Well tha would do away with any standing that the Royal family had Now suppose the Prince was betrothed to an Italian Princess and Mussolini went on a rampage Well see she would lose her Amateur standing and become just a professional commoner Well that would mean that he would have the right to annul the engagement or even if they was already married it would give him the right to be divorced for he could prove that she obtained him by false pretenses So that lets Italy out and he lost a fine girl just really on account of Mussolini

Two Girls in Spain

Now that brings us to Spain They have two fine Girls there But there again we have Primo Rivera the Amateur Director He is kind of second company of Mussolini Singing there is not what you would call a steady job So its too unstable to monkey with You couldent possibly take a chance on being linked with a Republic Portugal is out for they won't have their Revolutions between the time of the engagement and the marriage France Nothing there worth while Belgium I havent looked over the chart but I dont think there is anything available there

Holland They and the English don't mix so much When an Englishman is having his tea he don't want to be interrupted by wooden shoes clattering through the house So that dident leave him anything but the Scandinavian Countries Ther is three of them Sweden Norway and Denmark Well there was Something queer in Denmark so he dident go there Norway sounded too cold so that leaves Sweden and a beautiful lovely Girl 19 years old who perhaps is in love with some nice young man of her own race and country but the old heads must keep up the Prestige of this marrying business and find somebody that will do Royalty the most good It's just like Queen Isabella told all her children when she was doleing them out to Henry the 8th and King Charles It's not a Princes place to love, it's a Princes place to breed She sent em out to marry for their Country

A Thoroughbred race horse breeding establishment is more in line with royal marriages than anything I know of only they are careful to never inbreed But as far as the love thats a lot of Bosh They think it brings Nations closer to each other to have the heirs marry to each other Well it dident do so much for Germany and England but anyhow lets get him married off and let the Girls all over the world get their mush on somebody else It's wonderful I reckon to be a Prince or Princess, but they pay for it

Camp Robert Uhler Near Hepburn To Attract 250 Boys and Girls This Year

Site of Y. M. C. A. Summer Camp Has Been Popular as Resort for Picnickers for Many Years, Many Improvements Are Added

For many years there has been a [illegible] in Hardin county, favored by [illegible] like of sparkling water and [illegible] a grove of trees, attracting [illegible] of picnickers and campers. [illegible] year more than 250 boys of Marion will spend two [illegible] this spot known as Camp [illegible] is the Marion Y. M. C. A. located near Hepburn [illegible] period of campers this [illegible] now on its sixth day and [illegible] the time of their lives according to all reports.

The [illegible] for class which was designated for boys of all ages has been augmented by 34 crippled children taken to the camp for the two week period by the Marion Rotary club. These children instead of letting their injuries stop them from having their share of the fun which is plentiful are participating in a great many of the sports.

Cripples Join Games

They are showing their gratitude to the Rotary club for giving them this vacation by getting the fullest enjoyment out of it and are succeeding to the fullest degree.

Swimming and baseball take up the greater share of the time allowed for sports although volleyball and basketball claim their share of enthusiasts.

The Y camp which has been known as Camp Robert Uhler since 1921, is a memorial to Robert Uhler former Marion youth who died at the age of 23 after an illness with pneumonia. It was his father, F. K. Uhler who made possible the purchase and establishment of the camp.

Used 50 Years Ago

However the Y camp has been located at Hepburn for a long time being known as Westagerian before it was changed to its present name. Then more than 50 years ago the same location under the name of Hepburn used to attract local people who went there for fishing, swimming, dancing and bowling. Thirty years ago it was the custom of the Methodist church here to go to Hepburn for their annual picnic.

Excursions were run from Marion to Hepburn on the Erie railroad at regular intervals. The amusement resort, as it was then known was located in exactly the same spot as the camp is now. Bowling alleys were classed among the best in the state and a fine dance hall attracted many.

Now the former dance hall has been altered and changed into a recreation hall for the campers. A large baseball floor affords good amusement for the boys when the weather is bad. Also special meetings are held here.

New Steel Boats

This year eight new steel boats have been purchased and are in use during the time given over to this sport. Each boat has a life belt and addition al life belts are placed on the swimming dock.

A cottage has been built for Mrs. Walter Fetter the cook and her assistant Mildred Kluff. The cottage is along side of the mess hall and is about 16 by 16 feet. It has two bedrooms and a large living room and a powerful radio has been placed at their disposal for evening entertainment.

The mess hall has been painted so have the tables and benches. The campers take turn serving. The mess hall will accommodate about 80. A frigidaire system has been installed at the camp, keeping all food strictly fresh.

Eight Tents for Campers

Eight large tents with wooden floor boards are pitched in circle form around the spacious recreation field. Thirty six new double decked steel cots were purchased this year which will take care of 72 boys. There are four of these cots to a tent making eight boys in each tent under the supervision of a tent leader who is responsible for the behavior of the boys placed in his care. The Y furnishes the mattresses and the campers furnish their own bed clothing.

The camp this year is under the general supervision of F. O. Rudolph, athletic director of the Y during the boys periods and Miss Rhea King will be in charge of the girls periods. The crippled children in camp this period are in charge of Miss King and Miss Biddle, teachers in the crippled school at Marion during the school term.

The next period will end next week and the next two weeks period will be for boys from ages of 9½ to 12. The third period is for boys from 12 to 16 and the final two periods are for girls. The first girls period is from July 20 to Aug 10 and is for girls over 9½ years of age. The final camp period from Aug 12 to Aug 24 is for Junior and High school girls. The fee each period is $10.

It is likely that the two girls periods will be filled to their quota of 60 long before time for the first period to open. The boys' periods are filling up fast and would be far from filled by the time each period rolls around.

Camp officials welcome visitors. The route to take is the Kenton pike out of Marion. About seven miles east side of Kenton turn to the left and pass through Hepburn. The distance is about 24 miles and signs are along the road marking the way.

Lad Runs Away With Film Honors; Marion Theater to Have "Talkies"

Writer Declares Against Clowns Who Sing Through Tear Ducts

BY DAVID F. SENTENER
Marion Star Staff Writer

NEW YORK June 28—Mickey McBan the child movie actor speaks up like a man to Father and Son (Columbia) to the glory of childhood intelligence and the future of the bedtime story.

Children are admirable rascals. Here in the midst of murder, domestic infelicity and crimson melodrama an atmosphere generally considered bad for young minds, Mickey is unperturbed.

Jack Holt stepping into the parlor of wisdom from the great out doors plays Father Frank Fields widower to Mickey's Jimmy Fields.

Father slips on a romantic banana peel for the wiles of a blonde vamp (Dorothy Revier). She is really a naughty countess.

After the notorious countess marries the unsuspecting widower she gets herself murdered, and Father gets the blame. Young Jimmy tries to accept the responsibility for the crime on his own infantile shoulders to save Dad. It is enough to make any fond parent sniff with sentiment.

To the possible surprise of those concerned in this talky production Mickey runs away with the jam of the acting honors.

Incidentally it would be interesting to see an all children talking picture.

Presupposing that the chosen subject would be appropriate it would be comforting to enjoy an absence of crummy songs, detectives and clowns who sing through their tear ducts.

The chances are ten to one half of one per cent that many of our adult actors and actresses could learn one thing at least from the youngsters—how to act natural.

SURELY somewhere behind the footlights there must be a clown who laughs and likes it or because it is his birthday, or because he or she is filled with the joy of living or the prospect of a juicy steak or a fat contract in the talkies.

Sophie Tucker, in her first talky film, Honky Tonk is yet another one of those who shake their shoulders although their heart is breaking. Sophie is cast as a nationally famous night club hostess. Only her fashionable educated daughter Beth (Lila Lee) is so high hat that she never heard of her mother's fame (a rather long bow suggestion in these days of incinerated youth).

And when Beth finds out that her mother is only a night club entertainer she is so ashamed that she tells her millionaire boy friend to come and get her.

Thereupon the rakish millionaire boy friend makes a right about face and declares that he will not marry Beth until she apologizes to her mother.

To which I say—Honky Tonk.

However Sophie has several excuses during the action to burst into powerful rhythm. She can yodel the blues considerably, if you like that sort of thing.

ROSETTA and Vivian the famous Duncan sisters will do a split, not the terpsichorean kind, but a "business" split in a story of vaudeville called "Cotton and Silk" their first talking picture for Metro Goldwyn Mayer. The usually inseparable team will be divided as the sprightly Rosetta will appear in one scene and Vivian in another.

Small boys of Hollywood may thank Lupe Velez, volatile Mexican screen actress for starting a fad which has brought them many shiny dimes through the sale of rest pocket size mono-rammed pet turtles.

Lupe started it when she recently returned from an eastern trip with a dozen of her diminutive sea going creepers. She had her own and her friends' name or monograms painted on the turtles backs and turned them loose in the private menagerie which he maintains at her Laurel Canyon home.

The hiel of Rudolph Valentino still haunts the motion picture industry.

Part of an East Indian costume for George Arliss making the Vitaphone version of "The Green Goddess" was a jeweled sword in a bejewelled scabbard. Accidental examination of the beautifully carved blade revealed the name of Valentino etched into the steel.

It was once his sword but now it is owned by a rental agency and served in various pictures wherever such an elaborate and unusual piece is needed.

FOR the first time in their long and active motion picture history the three Sam'us Moore brothers Owen, Tom and Matt will appear together on the screen in Cue Streets an all talkie Radio picture. One is the hero another the heavy and the third is a sort of buffer between the other two as they fight over Kathryn Perry pretty blond wife of Owen Moore—which makes it a family affair.

As a dance movement the shimmy is just a ghost but as a means of photographing shows a shimmying camera is the proper caper according to the findings of Tod Browning, directing "The Thirteenth Chair" an all talking mystery thriller for Metro Goldwyn Mayer.

The weird effect of a spiritual seance scene is heightened by the diffused images obtained by vibrating the camera while the shot is being made.

Park Dance Director Renews His Contract

Rose Blanc Columbus dancer who has become well known as a stage and ballroom attraction will be featured from 10 to 11:30 o'clock Saturday and Sunday nights at Crystal Lake Park. She has appeared several times at Valley Dale popular dancing pavilion near Columbus.

Glenn Norris popular director of the orchestra which has played at the park since Memorial Day has renewed his contract for 30 days. All members of his orchestra are students of Ohio State university and have been featured as a unit over WAIU in 1925 and WCAH last winter. He and his orchestra has played at Buckeye Lake Indianola park Columbus the Coliseum in Mansfield and have filled several stage presentation engagements.

Installation Will Be Made Shortly, Gives City Two Sound Houses

By JACK

WITHIN a few weeks Marion will have another motion picture house in which sound and dialogue pictures will be shown.

Manager J. J. Huebner of the Palace and Marion theaters today announced that arrangements had been made to install sound equipment in the Marion.

Vitaphone and Movietone equipment the same as is used in the Palace will be used thus assuring Marion fans of being able to see all types of sound pictures.

Manager Huebner was unable to state the exact date of the installation.

WITH the opening of the Orpheum today as a popular price theater all houses are again in operation in Marion after one of the most hectic years in many years. The year has witnessed the passing of what also at amounted to a local monopoly to the present situation wherein there are five managements for the six theaters.

It has been the inauguration and the ruthless elimination of stock companies the introduction of talking musical comedy programs several transfers of local theaters etc.

IT is reported that the Harry Rolfus Players musical comedy company opening here Sunday will attempt an indefinite run at the Grand. Rollins is the comedian who was here with the World of Pleasure troupe a week ago. There is no information available as to whether the Rollins company is the renamed Powell company.

TWO years ago one of the biggest musical shows on the stage was "The Desert Song." Warner Brothers have now made a talkie singers soundee of it and the Palace is offering it for four days beginning Sunday matinee.

This is the first musical show adaptation attempted in the sound system and in addition to a large cast including John Boles, Carlotta King, Louise Lagrande, Myrna Loy, John Miljan and others there is a singing chorus of one hundred.

The Riff Song and all the other inspiring choruses of "The Desert Song" come to the audience in volume. The desert settings are said to be remarkable.

The story is that of a Frenchman who becomes a sort of Robin Hood of the desert helping to right injustices to the natives. Disguised as the Red Shadow he leads a band of desert tribesmen. His father, commander of the French garrison, seeks to capture him. He loves Margot his father's ward and makes love to her in his own person and as the Red Shadow. In the latter character he kidnaps her and refusing to fight a duel with his own father for her possession, is deposed by the latter becomes and sent out in the desert to perish. He returns as the long vanquished of the Red Shadow and Margot discovers that her two lovers are the same person.

A NEW KIND OF CAR THEN—A NEW KIND OF CAR NOW

OCT 11 1924

"... the Chrysler is a new type of motor car, which holds entirely novel sensations for every motorist. + + The fact is, that Chrysler engineers have in this car employed the fundamentals of motor car design in a manner fully as revolutionary as the application of the steam turbine to ocean-going ships. + + Your first ride in a Chrysler will compel a new conception of automobile transportation."

WHAT YOU EXPECT OF CHRYSLER

The imposing succession of Chrysler accomplishments has led the public instinctively to expect more of Chrysler than of other cars—and it is the completeness with which Chrysler fulfills those higher expectations that explains the ever-rising tide of Chrysler success.

You expect of Chrysler a charming individuality in style, and you get it. You expect a livelier and more thrilling spirit of performance, and you get it. You expect a more luxurious feeling of cradled comfort, and you get it. You expect a greater sum total of actual value in Chrysler, and you find it.

Chrysler today exerts a tremendous influence over the entire industry—and justifiably. In the five years of its meteoric rise, Chrysler has done more than any other force in the automobile world to revolutionize and modernize motor car standards.

That is the reason why the volume of Chrysler sales has increased to such mighty proportions—and why Chrysler enjoys such prestige in 93 countries.

We invite you to take a Chrysler demonstration—expecting more of Chrysler than of any car within several hundred dollars of its price.

Union Church Services Will Open Here Sunday, June 30

MINISTERIAL GROUP MAKES ALL PLANS

Rev. Karl W. Patow and Rev. W. H. Howard Outline Program for Summer

FINAL SERVICE SEPT 1

Young People's Society Whose Pastor Gives Sermon Handle Meetings

After the coming Sunday services, 10 Sundays during the warm summer months will be given over to union services in Marion, with the exception of one Sunday which will be given over to Chautauqua.

Union services in this city are under the auspices of the Marion County Ministerial association, and have been arranged this year by the Rev. Karl W. Patow, pastor of the Prospect Street M. E. church, and the Rev. W. H. Howard, pastor of the First United Brethren church. Sunday, June 30, the first union service sermon will be preached and Sunday, Sept. 1, the last of the series will be delivered.

Young People's Services

It has been arranged by the committee and through precedent that the Young People's society of the church whose pastor delivers the sermon, will be in charge of the Young People's services. A contest will be held during the summer between the societies for the largest percentage of attendance at these meetings.

Young people's services will be opened at 7 o'clock and the church services at 8 o'clock. Miss Norma Parker is president of the City Union of Young People's societies, in charge of all arrangements for the programs.

Included in the program are two out-of-town ministers, the Rev. J. F. Leister, general secretary of the Lord's Day Alliance of Columbus, who will preach at Epworth M. E. church July 7, with a special young people's program, and the Rev. George E. Barnard of Detroit, who will preach at First Presbyterian church Aug. 4. The Rev. Mr. Barnard will substitute for the Rev. Lawrence A. Wood, pastor of Trinity Baptist church, who will be on his vacation at that time.

Program for Summer

The program for the summer, as outlined today, will be as follows:

June 30, the Rev. G. E. Groves, pastor of Central Christian church, at Prospect Street M. E. church; July 7, the Rev. Mr. Leister at Epworth M. E. church; July 14, Dr. H. L. George, pastor of Epworth M. E. church, at First Reformed church; July 21, attend chautauqua; July 28, the Rev. H. L. Olewiler, pastor of First Presbyterian church, at Central Christian church; Aug. 4, the Rev. Mr. Barnard; Aug. 11, the Rev. W. H. Howard, pastor of First United Brethren church, at Wesley M. E. church; Aug. 18 the Rev. Karl W. Patow, pastor of Prospect Street M. E. church, at Trinity Baptist church; Aug. 25, the Rev. G. A. Whitlock, pastor of Wesley M. E. church, at First United Brethren church; Sept. 1, the Rev. H. F. Weckmueller, pastor of First Reformed church, at Central Christian church.

The Forest Lawn Presbyterian church of which the Rev. John A. Carriker is pastor, and the First Church of the Brethren, of which the Rev. G. G. Caufield, is pastor, have combined for a series of Union meetings this summer.

Well-Balanced Diet

A SERMONETTE

BY THE REV. C. H. FOWLER
Delaware Evangelist at Asbury M. E. Church

MAN shall not live by bread alone but by every word which proceedeth out of the mouth of God." Matthew 4:4.

Man is a Soul. He has a body. Without sustenance the body dies. Likewise the soul atrophies and perishes without spiritual food. Millions of people read the Word each day. "Desire the sincere milk of the word that ye may grow thereby." 1 Peter 2:2. Jesus said, "The words that I speak unto you are spirit and life."

There is much said today about diet and the proper combination of foods." This is wise. Should we not also be solicitous about the proper diet for the soul? The Bible is this diet and there is no substitute available.

Loss of appetite is a symptom of disease. A lack of appetite for the Word reveals the disease of sin which destroys the soul.

Dear reader, this precious Word is for your comfort, your joy and your hope. It is perilous to neglect it.

Your friends will pass away, you will pass away, but Jesus said, "My words shall not pass away." Thank God for this eternal Word which brings eternal life to all who read and obey it.

MEXICAN BELLS TO RING ONCE AGAIN

Government and Catholic Church Heal Breach of Three Years

been shut down during the last three years may not reopen until a later date however when the various priests officiating in them return

Monster manifestations of rejoicing were inaugurated today by Catholics in every community of the country Observance was also begun today of the nine-day pilgrimages to the Basilica of Guadeloupe the national shrine situated in a suburb of this city

All women held in the prison colony on the islands of Las Tres Marias on the western coast of Mexico for violations of laws regulating religion have been ordered released by the department of the interior Abbess Maria Concepcion de la Lata, who was sentenced to 20 years imprisonment as the intellectual author of the assassination of the late Gen Alvaro Obregon was not among those released

Concessions Made

The simultaneous announcements of the settlement made by President Portes Gil and Archbishop Ruiz indicated that both sides had made concessions in order that the controversy should be brought to a close Agreement on three major points of the controversy furnished basis for the settlement

The Catholic hierarchy was given the right to designate the priests who are to register in compliance with the Mexican laws This removed the church's chief objection to registration because it gives the church and not the government primary control over the personnel of the clergy

Religious instruction under the agreement continues to be barred in public and private primary and higher schools where lay instruction is given in accordance with the Mexican constitution but such instruction will be permitted within the confines of the church

Liberal Interpretation

The clergy will be given the right to apply for modification of the constitution at any time in the future by applying to the proper authorities for amendment repeal or passage of any law This granted the church men virtually equal constitutional rights with ordinary Mexican citizens

The agreement placed elections in Mexico on the same footing that they were prior to July 31 1926 when Catholic church services were stopped In reality the settlement was nothing more than an agreement upon liberal interpretation of the constitution of 1927

Gil's Statement

President Portes Gil in announcing the settlement stated

"I am glad to take advantage of this opportunity to declare publicly and very clearly that it is not the purpose of the constitution the laws or the government of the republic of Mexico to destroy the identity of the Catholic church or any other church or to interfere in any way with its spiritual functions

Archbishop Ruiz ended his statement as follows

"I entertain the hope that resumption of religious services may lead the Mexican people animated by a spirit of mutual good will to cooperate in all moral efforts made for the benefit of all people of our fatherland

Archbishop Ruiz is senior member of the Catholic hierarchy in Mexico His designation as apostolic delegate came about through the intercession of Ambassador Dwight W Morrow who also conferred frequently and at great length with President Portes Gil and former President Plutarco Calles and thus aided materially in bringing about the settlement of the controversy

FEAR TROUBLE OVER RUM FRONT GUNFIRE

ured across the international line at rum runners in Canadian waters

Will Retaliate

Commenting on the report that Washington would protest to Ottawa on the recent shooting affray off Belle Isle in which rum runners fired from Canadian waters upon a customs patrol boat Cuddy said

"I understand that the Dominion government will retaliate by showing that U S patrol boats have frequently crossed the international line into Canadian waters and patrolled up and down close to the Canadian shore

Cuddy said he would urge the drilling of prohibition police forces stationed along the border and the seizure of guns and trucks when guns are found in rum running crafts in Canadian waters

Not Carrying Weapons

My investigation however Cuddy said has convinced me that Canadian rum runners are not carrying weapons The gun toting is being done by smugglers from Detroit If weapons are found aboard rum running boats in Canadian waters a severe penalty will be dealt out

After investigation the bullet riddled hull of a pleasure craft alleged by Canadian customs patrol agents Cuddy asserted that the federal agents were not justified in the shooting

Cuddy pointed out that International complications would be certain to result should there be a staging along the border front from such shootings

Leaves Toughest

Orwin Attorney Gen S Allin who proposed the thorough search of all boats leaving Canadian export docks to make certain they were not carrying weapons asserted that the U S enforcement campaign has weeded out the small fry of rum operators leaving only the toughest of rum runners

They are characters who have no respect for law Allen said They will not be frightened by talk

Reports of another river rum battle were made last night by Sandwich Ont police The skirmish however had not been officially reported in Detroit according to federal officials

sor she would if I have been afraid of losing him I chose he made a week end trip with his family They regard it as an attempt on the professor's part to unman Public sympathy

Prior to his confession Snook told the authorities that the quarrel with Miss Hix arose over her insistence that he give her narcotics His confession ignored the narcotic angle entirely So far as the authorities could learn Miss Hix was not addicted to the use of drugs

The police are also puzzled over the fact that on the night of the slaying Snook carried a hammer in the window ledge of his Hupmobile coupe in which he and Miss Hix went riding The rest of his tools were stored away in meticulous order in the rear of the car It was with this hammer that he beat the girl down before he severed her jugular vein with his pocket knife

Daily Proverb—"The last taste of things gives them the name sweet or sour."

So this is summer.

Professor Nicholas Roerich says that "wives rule in Asia." Huh! Where do they not?

An assistant of State's Attorney John A Swanson, of Chicago, is accused of being a bandit, which is our idea of a mighty mild charge to attract the attention it has in Chicago

Two men on horseback robbed the Bank of Caney, out in Oklahoma, and rode away with $2,256. There are people like that who seemingly scorn progress and cling to the methods of the "good old days."

Bishop Cannon admits, in response to the Glass charges, that he dabbled in the stock market, but what of that? It's not improbable that a lot of men every bit as good as the bishop have done the same thing.

The speedy recovery of the $75,000 stolen from the private car of Tom Mix might lead those suspiciously inclined to wonder if Tom is old enough to remember when the great free publicity game of the feminine elevators of the stage was to have their jewels stolen.

A Hoosier woman walked fifteen miles to surrender to the authorities and admit that she had killed her husband. While her feat in pedestrianism was a bit out of the ordinary, the slaying was otherwise regular, as she shot him in the back "in self-defense."

Three days after robbing the First National bank at Sumner, Illinois, of $8,300, two bandits were under sentence to serve from one year to life, each, in prison. Here's one Illinois crime, at least, in which it can not be charged that official corruption figured.

"Killed by Train; Bride of Week Left a Widow," reads a headline in the Chicago Tribune. Had we not read it in the publication which modestly admits that it is "The World's Greatest Newspaper" we never would have believed such a thing possible.

James S. Allan, Canadian attorney for the crown, makes the demand that Canada's rum-running navy be stripped of all firearms, believing that it will have the effect of reducing liquor smuggling into the United States. It may be said, too, that it would just about wipe out every possible excuse of our patrol guards for shooting up boating parties on the Detroit river.

Mrs. Edward Everett Gann was the guest of honor, sitting at the right hand of Sir Esme Howard, dean of the Washington diplomatic corps, at the dinner given by him Thursday night. It looks as though Dolly had taken the diamond-studded belt as victor in the Washington social precedence battle.

A jury of middle-aged married men has been chosen to sit in the breach-of-promise proceeding of Ann Livingston, thirty years old and a "sparkling eyed divorcee," against sixty-one-year-old Franklin S. Hardinge, millionaire Chicago banker, in which she seeks $250,000 damages. Naturally, one might assume that such jurymen would have a fellow-feeling for the defendant, but on the other hand there's no telling what those sparkling eyes may do to a lot of fellows of that age.

A Great General Dies.

Without the funeral rhythm of muffled drums, without the military symbol of the lumbering gun-carriage, unheralded by the blast of trumpets, General Bramwell Booth, son of the founder of the Salvation army, General William Booth, goes to his final resting place. As former commander of an organization known over the entire world for its works of charity and mercy, the title of the one-time leader is almost a discordant note in the harmony of charity to which his life was devoted.

General Booth was deprived of his command after a stormy session of the commissioners last winter. He was succeeded by General Edward J. Higgins, and the turmoil surrounding the affair led to the final estrangement of the general and his sister, Commander Evangeline Booth, whose misunderstandings had covered a long period of years.

Bramwell Booth did not lead his army on a fiery charger. His methods differed from those of his father who was predominately a militant. Father and son worked together as partners for many years, the father leading the forces, and the son sitting quietly in the background marshalling the finances and the support necessary for the program. His father's death did not change his attitude, and he continued to function in the capacity of an organizer. The monument to his memory will be the vast organization which he built up in his years of service.

Not Without Their Effect.

The comment of both the British and the French press on the speech delivered by Ambassador Dawes at the Pilgrims' dinner in London and that of Premier MacDonald at Lossiemouth was very generally friendly. If we are to judge by the press expression of the two lands, both look with kindly eyes on the views of the two speakers on the subject of reduced armaments. The expression of the British press was, if anything, somewhat more enthusiastic than that of the French, for while the comment of the more important British papers was cordial throughout there was an occasional deviation on the part of the French newspapers from the seeming enthusiasm manifested by the British editors.

The Nationalist Echo de Paris naturally indulges in the ridicule with which it usually treats most subjects, national as well as international. Maintaining its reputation in this respect, it says, in part.

"After reading the speeches of Mr. Mac Donald and General Dawes, one can not resist the impulse to laugh. Out of all these words there is only one thing that stands out, and that is that the United States is demanding that England shall yield supremacy in battle cruisers if she wishes to obtain enough small cruisers to police her commercial routes."

Pausing for a moment to consider our position and the "yardstick" which has the backing of President Hoover, even though it may not have originated with him personally, the reader may note that the Echo de Paris, despite its tendency to treat all things with ridicule, is not so far away from the fact in its reference to the American position.

And there is one matter which, though not brought out definitely by any of the British papers, is accentuated by almost all the French editorial writers who thus far have gone into print on Ambassador Dawes' speech. We refer to what they hold is "a hidden threat" on his part that, if agreement looking to reduction in armament is not reached, the United States will proceed with its plan to build the greatest navy afloat.

Objection may well be taken to this French view for the reason that, no matter what Ambassador Dawes may have said on the subject, it could not possibly be classed as "a hidden threat." No matter what he might have said on the subject, it couldn't possibly have been more than a repetition of an authorized White House statement openly made and published to the world. If our memory serves us correctly, it was directly made by our chief executive, and made a couple of weeks, or such a matter, before the arrival of General Dawes in London. As a matter of fact, in the event that there is no agreement for a reduction of armaments, it is the plan of the United States to build up, following the line of the naval program adopted, a navy the equal of any afloat.

Going back to the Echo de Paris, we are inclined to agree with its writer that the two speeches were merely matters of words in the sense that they, in themselves, are nothing more than indications of the possible attitude of the United States and British governments; that they, in themselves, bind neither government. But while they may have been nothing more than an indication of the attitude of our president, expressed through his ambassador, on the one hand, and that of the British premier on the other, they should, and probably will, have a telling effect in that they show the wish and desire of the active heads of two great nations to cut down armaments and relieve their peoples of the great financial burdens such armaments entail. They will have the effect of making the world think more and more of the desirability of reduced armaments. They will strengthen the desire and demand for a reduction in expenditure for armaments. They will have the effect of making the world retrenchment-minded rather than naval-expansion-minded and thus lead the world to a condition of mind where real armament reduction will become a probability, if not an actuality of the near future, rather than the dream it has thus far been.

If Yellow Bird Schreiber did approach the United States lines to permit him to do a stowaway stunt on the Leviathan, as reported, it's good to know that the officials of the lines are not colluding in such cheap publicity fakes.

Were the situation not so sad, it would be laughable. The same day Senator Carter Glass, of Virginia, charged that President Hoover was pussyfooting in the matter of dry law enforcement, the people of several of the states were pleading with the president to call off his dry enforcers who were killing their citizens. It's amazing what a man can see when looking through the glasses of partisan bias.

Clouds of Dust.

The stone dust used by the Columbus, Delaware and Marion Electric company as a filler for the old bricks relaid by it along its newly-constructed track on Center and State streets has been permitted to remain a nuisance for a number of days.

The Electric company began cleaning the dust off its track this morning, but that does not abate the nuisance save in degree. For several days each passing motor car has raised a dust cloud, with the result that the dust was quickly spread the full width of the highway and carried into business places not only to the great annoyance of shop-owners, but also to their damage.

No matter what the reason the dust was applied as it was, it should not have been permitted to work unnecessarily to the disadvantage of the places of business along the two streets. If the dust is to be used for like purpose in the future, some method of wetting it down should be employed. There is little excuse for continued annoyance to citizens from such a source. The city authorities should afford them protection against such an imposition.

IT HAPPENS EVERY DAY.

Caution in Pre-School Age.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

One-third of all the deaths in the United States occur under the age of six years. It has been shown that there are ten times as many deaths during the five years before school age, as during the full ten years of school life.

There can be no doubt that the first five years of life are the most important from the health standpoint. If we could take charge of these children and give them a foundation of good health we would change the medical map of America.

I want you to know what a great authority said along this line. I quote: "The susceptibility to infection is generally greater the younger the child. Over eighty per cent. of all cases of diphtheria and of all deaths from diphtheria occur before the age of five. Malnutrition, likewise, is more prevalent among pre-school than among school children. Rickets, a disorder of nutrition, is almost as common as dental caries and is essentially a pre-school disease. Approximately fifteen per cent. of 3,000 pre-school children clinically examined in Gary, Indiana, showed bony defects of rachitic origin. With few exceptions, the typical physical defects of school children, such as malnutrition and nose and throat troubles, are more prevalent among pre-school children."

I am not surprised that this authority expresses his indignation over our neglect of the young children. "Fundamentally this situation grows out of the fact that we have been slow in appreciating the medical and developmental significance of the early years of childhood. We have intrusted these years too completely to the unaided home and to Providence."

These are the years that children must be watched with the greatest vigilance. The early years are the important ones. From babyhood to school age is the period when many ailments are waiting their chance to attack the precious life.

I shall be glad when every school board makes it a point to determine the state of health of all children applying for admission to the public schools. This is the time when parents should be advised of the necessity for correcting existing physical defects. It is to be hoped that everybody will learn the importance of this period and of restoring to normal condition the little ones who will enter school next Fall. Begin now.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES.

C. C. Q—Can hoarseness, caused by tubercular laryngitis, that has persisted throughout the treatment, be cured or remedied where there is only a slight lung condition present? When is tuberculosis considered curable?

A—This would depend upon the condition of the throat—it should respond to treatment if the tubercular condition is slight. Have your doctor advise you. If tuberculosis is taken in the early stages there is very often a good chance of a permanent cure. In this case also, however, the extent and seriousness of the trouble plays an important part.

Native South Africans.

BY TEMPLE MANNING.

Today we are in Cape Town, South Africa, for the purpose of studying the native problem there. To do this, it might be wise to realize the divisions of the natives, themselves.

The Bantu tribes, including the Zulus, are the highest in intelligence. Then come the Hottentots, or farm laborers, and then the Bushmen. Of course, there are many half-castes, and these present a problem in themselves, belonging, as they do, to neither side, and being filled with ambition and of sufficient intelligence to take their places in the white civilization.

Only recently have the natives had an opportunity to receive an education. It is a treat to visit one of their schools, and to see how eagerly each pupil pursues his studies. They jump at every opportunity that presents itself for advancement and are literally insatiable.

Even at this time, however, in spite of the strides forward, the natives are under strict rules and are treated almost as if they were children. There is a rigid curfew enforced, no man being permitted out at night after a specified time without a pass from his employer. The mine-workers are forced to live in compounds, their wives must stay at home, where they bring up the families and attend to the crops. — Copyright, 1928, Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Editorial Opinion.

COMMON SENSE IN NAVAL CONSTRUCTION

We can imagine the characteristic grin which Charles G. Dawes grasped the hand of J. Ramsay MacDonald in the epoch-making conference at Lossiemouth last Sunday. That the gesture met with a reciprocal response we learn from the formal address of the British premier last evening, when he said of his meeting with the American ambassador:

"The hands we clasped were not cold with official correctness, but warm with friendship inspired by common enthusiasm for service in the cause of international good will and common sense."

The spirit here evinced is the genius of this bold and novel experiment upon which the two greatest naval powers of the world promise to enter—a direct appeal to human nature, with a waiting aside of all the auxiliaries which heretofore have been deemed indispensable to arrival at a common understanding on the limitation of naval armament. General Dawes, in his speech at the Pilgrim society dinner, was very happy in his introduction of the new principle of international negotiation, from the lips of Edmund Burke. "Politics," said the great English orator and statesman, "ought to be adjusted not to human reasonings, but to human nature, of which the reason is but a part, and by no means the greatest part." The address of the ambassador was devoted to an exposition of this doctrine, and formed a graceful prelude to the employment of new methods and standards, when the nations of the world follow the invitation of America and Great Britain and sit down again at the table to devise a plan to save thousands of millions of dollars for the peacetime uses of their peoples. The American theory is, in short, the formulation of a plan which will strike the human chord in both countries, although it may be frowned upon by the experts of both.

There is much of rhapsody and idealism in the situation as it exists at the moment, so much, indeed, that the statesmen of the two major negotiating countries and their advisers may find a solution of their problems difficult when the actual case is brought down to earth. The proposal, in its bare outline, as tacitly if not actually agreed upon by the ambassador and the premier, is to amass all the information and the advice they can gather from naval and financial experts, and then to let a body of laymen, representing the political sense of high countries—using the phrase in its highest significance—work out the details of an agreement. The new method, to use a rough illustration suggested by the Geneva conference, would take little if any cognizance of whether cruisers should be of 5,000 or of 10,000 tons and carry a stipulated size of guns, but would be mightily concerned with the actual naval strength each country should attain. Or, to put it differently, the "yardstick" of President Hoover would measure total equipment and expenditure rather than the precise composition of the various units.

The speeches of last evening were not as definite as even this vague and unsatisfactory definition. They were, necessarily, of form rather than of substance, but enough is known of the general character of the Hoover idea to cause the maritime experts of both countries to shake their heads doubtfully and to fear that if the old standards are abandoned, one side will lose too much to the other. That is the ancient fear, and practical minds in both countries will still remain powerfully influenced by it. It is that, however, which the Kellogg pact is designed to dissipate, by paving the way for a fresh conference, this time, as it happens, with a new British government which regards the whole question of naval disarmament from an extraordinary and idealistic point of view. The traditions of neither country will encourage the "lunatic fringe" of pacificism, in this unprecedented gathering to which both countries have pledged themselves, but the Dawes and MacDonald speeches offer proper encouragement to the citizens of each who want "common sense," as the policy of naval construction, to win.—Boston Transcript, June 18.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, June 22—There are around 100 fresh applications daily for jobs in the editorial rooms of New York newspapers. Many of the overtures are by mail, but the majority are in person. Almost every hour of the day journalistic fledglings, hat in hand, await in outer offices "The Great Call."

Various schools of journalism unloose their potential Richard Hardings Davises during summer months when the tide of reportorial posts is at its most discouraging low ebb. The larger number have the idea they want a try at the game as a stepping stone, but it usually becomes a career.

There are various angles from which the novitiate approaches the work. Some are loaded with letters of introduction, others send in articles, try to write clever epistolary bait, beard the city editor in his den or uncover the so-called "scoop" or exclusive yarn.

But those more likely to win a place on the payroll are those who have dredged journalistic experience out of smaller towns. Any number, however, have been taken on without experience and made good. One of New York's best reporters got his job by writing a clever letter from a Minnesota whistle stop.

The famous editorial writer, Frank I. Cobb, punctuated the hard metropolitan shell with brilliant editorials written from a town in Michigan. There was once a grouchy city editor who went on the job at 6 a. m. For years any applicant who tackled him as he came into his office got a job.

He reasoned any man who would get up that early to land a job needed it and would work hard. He discovered later that news of this weakness in his armor became known. Every man out of a job used to wait for him. The city editor, incidentally, is now serving a life sentence in Sing Sing.

The school of journalism graduate seems to have first consideration just now. He has been drilled in essentials that require patience to impart to a beginner. But he does not always make a good reporter. Reportorial vacancies are scarcer these days because the dissolute, migratory reporter has vanished. The reporter has become a steady worker.

Some of the dryest and dullest speeches I have ever heard were delivered in New York, and the brightest were at a Rotarian luncheon in Indianapolis. Making Gold.

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS.

"Can gold be manufactured of certain known substances which we know do not contain gold? Recently some German professor assumed that he could create gold by compounding; can you enlighten us on his theory?—G. Hothiger, Glenwood, Illinois."

If you want to understand how it is believed that gold may be formed by transmutation from other elements, for instance mercury, you must begin by abandoning entirely your ordinary ideas about the distinction between gold and mercury. Gold has certain "properties" by which you recognize it, and mercury has certain other properties, equally distinctive. Gold is yellow, heavy, hard, but not too rigid, malleable, so that it can be shaped without too much difficulty, resistant to atmospheric influences, so that it keeps its brilliancy, etc. Mercury is white, liquid at ordinary temperatures, gathering itself into drops and running wildly about, and heavy, but a little lighter than gold.

By these contrasted physical properties we distinguish between them. But nature knows them by entirely other marks. Nature builds the elements up out of atoms, each element having its own kind of atom. And she makes the atoms themselves up out of what seem to be nothing but electric charges—positive and negative, offsetting one another.

She gives to every atom a nucleus, composed of a certain number of positive combined with a certain number of negative charges. But always there is at least one positive charge in excess, by virtue of which the nucleus can hold a negative charge, or an electron, prisoner as it were, in the atom.

Beginning with the simplest of the elements, hydrogen, it is found that the atom consists of a nucleus having one positive charge which balances one negative charge, or electron belonging to the same atom. So the hydrogen atom is made up of a positive nucleus—proton—and one negative electron. The latter is figured as revolving around the nucleus.

Other elementary atoms are made up of nuclei surrounded by different numbers of electrons depending upon the outstanding nuclear positive charge. Thus each element is characterized by its so-called atomic number, i. e. the number of electrons which its nucleus can retain around it.

The atomic number of gold is seventy-nine; that of mercury is eighty. Now, suppose that it were possible in any way to change the number of elementary electric charges contained in the nucleus of the mercury atom so that say one electron—negative charge—could be added, which would reduce the positive nuclear charge from eighty to seventy-nine. In that way the mercury atom might thus be transmuted into an atom of gold, since it would now be made up of seventy-nine electrons, the characteristic atomic number of gold.

The same effect might be expected to result if instead of causing a negative electron to enter the nucleus of the mercury atom a positive proton were withdrawn from it, for in either case the result would be a nucleus with a charge suited to retain only the seventy-nine electrons recognized in the atom of gold.

Several experimenters have believed that they succeeded in producing traces of gold from mercury in such ways as these, and a few other apparent transmutations of elements have been announced, but the whole subject is still more or less covered with obscurity and uncertainty.

A very curious idea was that of the Japanese, Nagaoka, who thought that in the mercury atom there exists a kind of satellite proton—positive charge—circulating around the main nucleus, and that if this could be expelled the mercury would be transmuted into gold. He thought that he had succeeded by a powerful disturbance of the mercury nucleus; but others objected that what really happened may just as well have been the forcing of an extra electron into the nucleus.—Copyright, 1929, International Feature Service, Inc.

The Way of the World.

Seriously injured: 6,295,512.
Otherwise wounded: 14,002,039.
Direct cost of the war: $186,333,637,057.
Property loss of the war: $29,960,000,000.

Important as it is, unity isn't everything. It isn't even enough. Tolerant folks express satisfaction when they hear that two or more churches have united. They like the idea of people getting together on common ground in the promotion of great causes. "At last," she said, "we are all frozen together."

64 HOMES BUILT IN 1928, RECORD SHOWS

Section Has Become Important Part of Development of Marion

NEW SCHOOL PLANNED

This Year Will See Many New Houses Constructed and Plans Made

Oakland Heights has enjoyed a steady growth in the past few years There were 64 new homes erected in Oakland Heights in 1928 or 40 per cent of all the homes built in Marion There is no better indication of confidence in the future of this subdivision

The buying of a home is perhaps the most important investment made by the average family and one that should be given careful consideration Oakland Heights has many advantages to offer the home seeker It has its own schools churches stores and a theater all of which help make a finer and better civic spirit among its homeowners In Oakland Heights one will find every convenience and comfort found in a modern city light water gas storm and sanitary sewers sidewalks and good streets telephone and fast transportation

Important Section

Oakland Heights has become an important part of Marion It has grown so rapidly that few think of the changes that have taken place here in the past few years The board of education has chosen Oakland Heights as the ideal spot for a new junior high school The land upon which it will be built has already been purchased and a beautiful building will be completed within a year from this summer This school will accommodate 600 pupils and should be a pride to the people of Marion

This year will see many more new homes completed as we have made extensive plans for further development of Oakland Heights When one owns a home here you can rest assured that your property is well located and that it is in a community that is growing in value every day This should be one of the first considerations of the home owner as your property is valued by its surroundings

Years of Record

The records at the courthouse contain the transactions of a quarter of a century of business and as one looks at the hundreds of dealings that lead to the happy results of folks owning their homes there springs a peculiar satisfaction that carries an abundant reward

Deeds of conveyance to the extent of practically 6000 home owners speak volumes for public confidence fulfilled

If all the houses built and sold were placed on both sides of one street of 50-foot lots that street would be almost four miles long

And if there were four people on an average, to a family a town of practically 3200 souls would be housed Upper Sandusky has a population of around 3800 Mt. Gilead 1800

One of the features of the Oakland Heights business district is the Oakland theater, operated by W. C Barry

The Barry family is engaged in the conduct of the theater Mr Barry and his son John operate the projection machines while Mrs. Barry is at the ticket window and their daughters Marjorie and Kathryn take care of the music

Airplane Newest Product To Be Manufactured Here

The plane shown in the picture was turned out at the factory at 280 North Main st several weeks ago It has been given thorough tests According to the builders the plant is now in a position to turn out 10 planes a month

The plane is said to embody several pioneer features

Some of the details of construction are interesting, for example the large roomy cabin is soundproof with special material comfort, visibility and leg room The cabin is lighted from an overhead skylight and adjustable windows affording excellent ventilation The interior is as attractively finished as in fine motor car There is a large rear compartment where baggage may be stored A bucket seat of comfortable dimensions and fully adjustable is provided for the pilot his position gives him a perfect view with all controls immediately at hand

The plane is equipped with full cantilever wing with a spread of 35 feet 10 inches The wing has an area of 185 square feet which will lift a total load of 1850 pounds As the plane itself weighs but 1150 pounds it allowed 800 pounds for passengers and baggage With this load the plane will climb 1000 feet a minute and is capable of reaching a height of three miles The cruising speed is 105 miles an hour and it has a cruising radius of six hours at hour reflueling which means it can travel nearly 700 miles without landing

The full cantilever landing gear has its shock absorbing unit fully enclosed in the fuselag and because of this unique construction the process of landing is easy and without danger The landing speed is usually at the rate of 35 miles per hour It has a length of 20 feet and does not require a large field in which to land

37 Consecutive Years of Service Ends As Marion Man Is Retired By Erie

William H. M'Dowell, 70, Plans To Spend Rest of Life Taking Things Easy, Will Return to Old Home Town

After 37 years as an employe of the Erie Railroad Co William H McDowell of Avondale ave is now on the company's pension list and plans to spend the remainder of his life taking things easy

The veteran railroader who was retired on May 1 his seventieth birthday anniversary concluded 47 continuous years of service with the Erie He had worked for seven years and then quit until 1880 when he went back with the Erie and had worked continuously for that company until May 1

McDowell is in fine health and despite the fact that he is supposed to be retired he is at mail his home just as hard each day as if he was on his favorite passenger train enroute to Chicago

Started as Baggageman

When he started with the Erie in 1880 for the first time he was employed as a baggageman He quit working for the Erie in the latter part of 1882 but in the fall went back to work in the freight service

For the first 4 years of his employment he was passenger baggageman and flagman on a run from Marion to Chicago

From 1882 to 1929 the changes in the Erie trains both passenger and freight, have been numerous although the strides made by the Erie in late years in passenger train development is especially notable in railroad history

McDowell claims that the Erie always did have the best freight service in the country but admits that the passenger service was not quite all that it might have been in the early part of the twentieth century

Boosts New Limited

The new Erie Limited a 25 hour train from New York City to Chicago that started in operation about two weeks ago has all the other passenger trains hauled off the map according to McDowell talking of the development of Erie passenger trains he says that while it has been slow it has been steady and in the future Erie trains will be able to cope with the best that other roads have to offer

McDowell was in the special coach of an Erie passenger train in which former President Underwood of the Erie was going to Chicago a number of years ago At this time McDowell was standing near Underwood when he made a statement the substance of which was I wish there never was or never had to be a passenger train on the Erie railroad system Spirit like that McDowell says kept the Erie from putting out passenger trains that would compare favorably with those of the other systems

The Limited's schedule calls for the run from here to Chicago in six hours and 7 minutes The fastest time that McDowell ever made on the Marion Chicago run was six hours and 10 minutes

Will Leave Marion

The old Erie trainmaster smiled rather sadly as he was asked whether or not he was glad he had been put on the retired list He thought for some time before he answered but finally said that he would have been glad to continue his work but now as he is becoming accustomed to not going to the train every other day life is not so bad

He plans to sell out his property here and go back to his old home in Huntington Ind where he lived when he first became connected with the Erie in 1880 He has two sons living, one in Griffith Ind and the other in Huntington Samuel who lives in Griffith is in the automobile business and Arthur is a fireman on the same railroad to which his father gave so much of his life

McDowell's favorite pastime is driving an automobile and when he is ready to move to Huntington he plans to drive with his wife to their new home to spend the rest of their days

Just Things

BY EDNA S DUTTON

One Way Out

THERE is an old wheeze something about where there's a will etc and it proved itself one morning this week when a garbage collecting wagon held up traffic in the alley at the side of the courthouse The bed of the wagon extended almost the whole width of the alley making it impossible for cars or other vehicles to pass The first persons to be inconvenienced by the hold up were a bunch of youths in and on an open faced roadster After honking their indignation under the very noses of the well mannered horses hitched to the wagon they wheeled about and up and over the courthouse esplanade they whizzed to Main st They were scarcely out of hearing when a youngster of about 10 summers wended his way to the main stem on the back of a cute little pony It was a small step for the pony onto the court house pavement and he jogged around the wagon and the out size editions of himself as though it were an every day occurrence

Business Women

WOMEN have wandered far afield from spending their days polishing the spoons and burnishing the brass as their grandmothers did and the business world today has the feeling that they have always been in the race to keep their bread well lathed with butter Occasionally however a step forward in the progress of some enterprise necessitates a little pioneer work and some member of the allegedly weaker sex is called upon to do something that hasn't been done before by their sisters in the cause

The feeble minority who chant that back to the home refrain for women would have given up in despair had they chanced to be on East Center st for a short time Thursday afternoon and could have seen the four saleswomen step jauntily from their advertising car and enter the store of their local representative The idea was the essence of slickness when it comes to advertising A miniature bungalow in pure white sparkling window panes made of mirrors porch eaves 'n everything And even this was the idea of a woman For it represented a well known candy firm One of saleswomen admitted that at first she was a bit shaken about the proposition of such a high powered idea calling attention to her wares and thought she might feel as conspicuous as Leo the lion but now if they don't look we honk And they do the driving themselves

Beauty Hints

BEAUTY parlors in ye olde days certainly must have carried a side line such as running a day nursery or checking parcels for some ends of the game were certainly flops If the girls formed a willing ear to the advice of the day A book on the art gives out the following dope

Washing the hair with water warm or cold requires considerable discretion as it certainly destroys its smoothness and brilliancy and not infrequently causes head ear or tooth ache and even weakness of the eyes An experienced medical man condemns the practice as highly dangerous and concludes his observations by advising his readers to wash the hands often the feet seldom but the head never

"White Fire"

An Absorbing New Emotional Serial of Love and Life on the Stage

BY LOUIS JOSEPH VANCE

EIGHT

MONA dragged Tormay, still protesting, out through the door, and Jenny made a light to contemplate Tabor by. He returned a sheepish smile for hers that dragged a little and was further tempered by crinkling eyebrows.

"Those two young people," he desperately ventured—"are they, do you suppose, epria?"

"I suppose so," Jennifer replied in impatience—"for the time being. They pretty generally are, with somebody or other. Tabor——"

"You mean, you don't think it's serious with them?"

"Neither of them is apt to take it that way. They can't afford to marry till they make good, and when that happens they don't want to. Oh, Tabor" the girl cried—"daren't I leave you alone even for two minutes?"

"But if they were hungry, how could I refuse?"

"If Madame Bennelli trusts them for their rooms, she'll trust them for their meals. Besides, leading men oughn't to be fed regularly: it spoils their figures and makes them think too much about themselves. It's a good thing we're going to move: an actor's hotel is no place for a man with a bankroll and a soft heart. And that's another thing, Tabor: What are you going to do about taking care of all that money? You can't go on carrying it around in your pocket, it's dangerous."

Tabor meekly alleged that he had been thinking about that. "I expect you've got an account with some bank, Jenny?"

"If you want to call it that. I think my balance is about $5."

"Then you can take me there tomorrow and introduce me."

Distrust deepened the shadow in the girl's eyes. "What for?"

"So that I may open an account and have my money in safe keeping."

"As Tabor Wynne or——?"

"There is no more a Tabor Wynne in this world, Jenny. But your identification of your husband ought to be enough for the bank."

Jenny turned to the table with the marble top and began to clear it for the trays on which their evening meal would presently be served. Her frown lingered. "Look here, Tabor," she said of a sudden. "There isn't going to be any trouble between you and me about money, is there?"

"Trouble'?"

"I mean the money Lance gave you. * * * I won't have you depositing that to my credit. I won't under any circumstances ever touch one penny of it. That's understood, I hope."

"Quite."

"Then that's all right." The girl went on with her task. "By the way," she volunteered, "Madame Bennelli knows about an apartment we maybe could get. It's Helen Munds'. She's going on the road next week, booked to the Coast and back. It's in 48th street near Eighth avenue: not what you might call a swell address: but four rooms and a kitchenette, furnished, for a hundred and a fifty a month."

"At least, that's what Helen's asking: but Madame Benelli thinks maybe we can get it for less. If you don't think that's too much * * *."

"It doesn't sound too extravagant for folk of our condition."

"All right, then: if you say so, we'll have a look at it tomorrow." Tabor said so, but the girl seemed to be still disturbed in her mind. "It's a lot of of money," she worried aloud: "and even if you have got a wad that would stage a musical comedy, it's all you've got and isn't going to last forever."

"But we've got to live in decent comfort," Tabor objected.

"Yes—but what are you going to do when it's gone?"

"It is no part of my plans to be idle——"

"I know: but suppose you don't find anything to do that will bring in more money * * * I don't say you won't; but suppose you don't * * *"

"I am not altogether without * * * resources."

That assertion, which so bravely started out to be a gently dignified reminder that the Wynnes were traditionally men of warm fortunes, and it was unthinkable that the last of that line should ever know the want of money, ended on a lame note. And the best face Tabor could muster in answer to Jennifer's demanding regard was a blank one.

"Have you? Where? In Philadelphia?" Tabor was silent. "And how are you going to get at them without going home? Tabor Drew won't be able to sign Tabor Wynne's name to checks, no matter how good the signature is, without leading detectives straight to Tabor Drew's address. And you wouldn't like Tabor Wynne to be found living with a woman, would you? You hadn't thought of that, had you? Maybe now you'd like to change your mind."

The girl refused to accept a mulish shake of the head. "Hadn't you better think it over? I'm going to my room now; it will be some time before dinner comes up * * * And don't worry, Tabor: I won't feel hurt if you decide you've acted too hastily; I'll understand * * *"

She finished at pause in the communicating doorway, looking back: and saw him wag his head again in token of fixed determination. "I shall not change my mind," he said. "Whatever happens, I can never go back."

"Never' is a long word, Tabor. But we're not going to argue about that any more tonight——"

"Or any time," Tabor amended with a dim smile.

"That's for you to say. I only want you to know you needn't hesitate on my account. I mean for fear of hurting my feelings— I'll understand. And please don't be angry with me for interfering in what's none of my business."

"But it seems to me, Jenny, I have made it your business. I can't ask you to—how can I put it?—join your ways to mine without giving you the right to call in question the wisdom of my plans so far as they affect our common welfare."

"Oh!" the girl cried to him, and he heard her voice shake—"you are such a—a perfect brick. Tabor, I don't know what to say to you. * * * It's only I don't want you to let yourself in for worries and disappointments and * * * I'm so afraid * * * forrets."

"But all that, I suppose," Tabor submitted, "rests with God."

"I wonder," Jennifer said. "Oh, I do wonder!"

And Tabor saw her no more, only a shut door where she had been.

But as if he still saw her standing there, his puzzling eyes were for many more minutes constant to that barrier. And Jennifer was in fact still present to the vision of his mind.

One of those moments had just passed whose occurrence in our days seems to be eccentric altogether and is always unforeseen, when some unknown reaction in the chemistry of the spirit causes figures in our environment which use and wont have blurred to our perceptions to take on of a sudden aspects peculiarly graphic and arresting, unforgettable.

Tabor was never to forget the Jennifer Challis who had just then been newly discovered to him, the girl who had posed lightly there in the doorway, a shape of vital womanhood singularly dramatic and charming, a vividly strange woman, infinite of a world outside the world he knew, who had notwithstanding promised to live with him and be in name his wife * * * a living mystery to whom all theloyalty he had left to give was pledged * * *

Letter Discloses Amazing Preparations to Which Charles Has Gone to Establish Alibi

AGAIN Lillian's eyes met mine over her young daughter's artless letter describing the unusual car which Charles Owen, her roommate's pseudo uncle, owned. I saw that she too was visioning the complete preparations for traveling and living with the least possible dependence upon the outside world which that car provided. I knew, too, that Marion's revelations of Carolyn's discovery of the secret panel, behind which guns were concealed, had brought to her mind as to mine the picture of a desperate man, a hunted man always ready to flee at a minute's notice from some ever-present menace.

" 'But she told me,' " Lillian went on with Marion's naive tale," although she never had said a word to anybody else. She didn't want to worry her mother, she thought Ronald would call her a 'Meddlesome Matty'—that was the name everybody gave her when she was a youngster—and she was afraid her father would be wild at her—you know, though he's awfully good to her and she has his name, legally, he isn't her real father, and of course his brother, Mr. Owen, isn't any relation at all, although Carolyn and Ronald have always called him 'Uncle Charlie,' and he's always been perfectly marvelous to them.' "

Lillian drew a long breath and grinned at me.

"I trust Marion's English teacher will be able to shorten her sentences and clarify them by the time she graduates," she said. "Thank Heaven, that's the end of that one. Now, brace yourself for another—"

" 'But here I am, pretty nearly through my letter, and I haven't told you about the marvelous things 'Uncle Charlie'—you don't mind my calling him that, do you, Mums—Carolyn asked me to, and so did he, and he really has been just as nice to me as to her, includes me in everything he sends—there are always two of each.' "

There was no mirth in Lillian's face now, and I knew that she distinctly "minded" her darling calling the sinister Mr. Owen "Uncle Charlie." But she was hurrying on with the letter and I put aside my own shuddering distaste at the picture Marion's letter was giving me.

" 'Every day since he left, there has come a Big package for Carolyn and one for me, marked 'special delivery and special handling' so it comes as first class mail with no delay. Of course we open them before Mrs. Barnes and you can see her open her eyes over the marvelous things for our room he sends us. Carolyn says he knows Oriental stuff forward and back—he's traveled so much in eastern countries—and she says he must hunt up the best Oriental shops as soon as he strikes a city big enough to have one. Some days the packages are marvelous candles or pots, and of course those we have to turn over to Mrs. Barnes, to have on our table instead of taking them to our room.

" 'But you should see our room! Bronze Buddhas and Shivas, 'hear, speak, see no evil' monkeys, a string of elephants from a great big old black one to a tiny baby ivory one, and wonderful pieces of tapestry for the walls. We've had to take down and pack away everything else to make room for them, and if he sends more we'll simply have to send the things home, or lend them to some of our friends. You can bet we're the most popular girls in Senior Hall just about now.

" 'And then every day, come postal cards to both of us—dandy picture ones—and one of the packages had albums to put 'em in, he said he was in a small city that didn't have anything else fit to send us. And Carolyn has the most marvelous letters from him—of course he doesn't write to me—but he always sends me some nice messages—telling all about his travels, and where he is each day. He's going to be gone quite a long time, he says, but he'll let us know when he's coming back.

" 'Gracious, Mummy, I didn't know it was so late, and I haven't done Math. Good night, dearest. Your own Marion.' "

Lillian laid down the letter with a tender little smile. For a second she did not speak, and I guessed that she was a bit choky at the loving close of the letter. Then she threw up her head, tenderness giving place to grimness.

"You see," she said, "a wide trail as an alibi, and yet a hard one to follow for anybody trying to catch him. A car of a common make, rarely stopping at hotels—and with the foxiest lad in seven States at the wheel, either Kendlon or Prince Georges' emissaries will have some time catching up with him."

"But—how long will he keep this up?" I asked.

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

SATURDAY. And I would as soon it would be Monday. That is something a fella couldn't say while school was in. If it was Monday it would be a whole week before I would have to have my face scrubbed for Sunday school. Oh, well, if it wasn't my face I suppose it would be something else. A fella never has anything just as he wants it. I felt in my pants the first thing after I had let Jubilee down to see if I had my half yet. I did. Goop has got something in his brains besides wind. I never would of thought about the sun. I asked him how come he thought of it and he said that when you are dealing with a crook you've got to think of everything. He said that when you place that he could have put the half a dollar and we didn't find it, it just had to be in the can. So he looked and it was. Goop says he guesses he will be a detective when he grows up. He will look funny wearing false whiskers.

We took our cow-rope down to the dam today and tied it across the place where the water runs through the dam up forward of where the water gate was, and then we took the plank away and made out like we was crossing Niagara Falls on a rope to save a beautiful maiden from a burning building, and some of us got across and some fell in, and then the girls came while we wer playing it, and Feeble said she bet she could do it, and she took off her shoes, because girls don't go barefooty, and started across, only the Last Bag of Tripe squatted behind her and juggled the rope, and when she felt herself going Feeble turned toward deep water and went into the pond like a toad frog. Then we threw the Last Bag of Tripe in, and then Maggie tried it and she went in like a spike-driver; then Youniss said to wait for her, and she ducked up the hill and pretty soon she came back with one of our clothespoles and a couple of bricks to the ends of the pole and then took the pole by the middle and walked over the rope and touched the other side with her foot, and then she walked back backwards. Then we all tried the balance pole, and I was surprised how easy it was. Then Feeble said, "Less all play follow the leader and I'll be leader, want to?" We all said we did, so we all ran around after her doing everything she done; and all at once she kissed Youniss and I saw Youniss looking at me, and I kissed her. Then when Whitey went to kiss her she said, "I have stopped playing." He was disappointed. He said "Who didn't you stop before Thos Aristides kissed you?" She said, "I never stopped eating till I come to the carrots." We certainly borrowed him.

And e'en the Rude Bucket that Hung in the Well"

The Old Oaken Bucket Is A Picturesque Memory

Most of the children of Marion have never seen an Old Oaken Bucket. It is merely a thing of the past. But this is just as it should be. All too many enemies of the city lurk in any such unguarded water supply.

The modern enemies of cities are bacteria. Their attack is infinitely more to be dreaded than is that of any human foe. Any avenue by which they may gain entrance to the city is a danger point, and modern health departments have learned to regard every source of water supply as a possible carrier of harmful bacteria.

The fact that modern sanitation and the sterilization of water supplies have reduced the death rate from typhoid fever by some 89 per cent is definite proof that no modern city can afford to neglect or minimize this subject. No one should sanction the continuance of any unsanitary condition which may be a source of danger to all.

Water is unsafe for human use unless it bears a certificate of at least daily analysis.

Regatta Broadcast To Be

NEARLY EVERY STATION BOOKED

Feature On Monday

PRACTICALLY every radio station of any importance will be in the coast-to-coast hookups of the Columbia and NBC broadcasting systems when the annual intercollegiate regatta at Poughkeepsie will go on the air at 4 o'clock Monday afternoon.

Radio spectators of the nation's greatest rowing event will take their positions on the banks of the Hudson 15 minutes before the start of the freshmen race at 4:15 o'clock. Junior crews will be off at 4:45 o'clock with the varsity race scheduled for somewhere near 7 o'clock.

On the NBC broadcast Graham McNamee will be the main announcer although the finish of the varsity race will be described by Paul Dumont, McNamee's working partner in many sporting events. John B. Daniel will take the shells from the start to the two mile post where McNamee will take up the race and broadcast the middle stages from a vantage point on the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad bridge. As the crews go into the final stretch Dumont will take over the broadcasting.

Then to Studio

Also on the N. B. C. broadcast after the freshman race the radio fans will be taken to the New York studios for a musical treat by the South Sea Islanders. When the junior race is finished the fans will hear music by the Black and Gold Room orchestra.

Columbia system will feature broadcasts from the air, land and water so that the radio fans will have a more general knowledge than those actually attending the race.

Edward B. (Ted) Husing will be at the microphone on the yacht that will follow the crews down the river. Describing the pre-race scenes from the air will be the unique privilege of Louis A. Witten. One of the largest hookups in Columbia history will broadcast this event.

"I PAGLIACCI" GO ON AIR

LEONCAVALLO'S opera, "I Pagliacci" with Julian Oliver in the role of Canio made famous by Caruso will be broadcast over the WEAF network at 10 o'clock Monday night by the National Grand Opera Company.

The scene of the opera is laid in Calabria, near Montalto, during the festival of the Assumption, in the nineteenth century.

HARP ARTIST IN MOTOR HOUR

SEVERAL numbers on the harp played by Winifred Bainbrick, well known harp concert artist, will form part of the eighth presentation of John Philip Sousa and his band by the General Motors Family Party at 8:30 o'clock Monday night over the WEAF network.

In brilliant contrast to the quiet tone of the harp Sousa will play one of the most barbaric of marches, Halvorsen's "Triumphal Entree of the Bojards." This march starts with the rhythm of drums at a distance and then brings them closer and closer in striking tonal coloring and ends with them in the distance, the drum rhythm being maintained throughout.

YOUNG PIANIST IN JOINT RECITAL

MATHILDE HARDING, gifted young pianist, will play a novelty selection by the noted American composer, Eastwood Lane, entitled "Crap Shooter" as a feature of her joint recital with Sergei Kotlarsky, violinist, at 10 o'clock Monday night over the Columbia network. "Impromptu in A Flat Major" will be a composition that Miss Harding will offer on this program while "B Minor Concerto" and the "Polonaise in B Major" will be played as piano-violin duets by Miss Harding and Sergei Kotlarsky.

BROADCAST MESSAGE OF KIWANIAN

FROM studio of WTMJ, Milwaukee, the NBC system will broadcast a brief program containing a message from Samuel A. Cummings, president of the International Kiwanis clubs Monday night. This program which will start at 9:15 o'clock will be relayed through WJZ, New York studio of the NBC. Further features of the 15-minute broadcast will be the rendition of "America" and "God Save the King" by a chorus.

MIMES TO PRESENT TWO ONE-ACT PLAYS

Meeting of Little Theater Group Will Be Held Tuesday Night

The Marion Mimes will present two one act plays at a meeting Tuesday night at 8 o'clock in the Central Junior High school auditorium. The two plays are under the direction of Mrs. Ruth I. Powers and Walter W. Weber, and rehearsals have been held during the past two weeks.

Mrs. Powers is directing a play with a cast including Miss Janet Trott, Wade McMahan, Rodney Hume and Darcel DeLong. Miss Helen Sifritt, Miss Anna Von Endt, Wilson B. Tway, Lewis Francis and James Reed are taking parts in the play directed by Mr. Weber.

This will be the third meeting at which plays have been given. Previous to this time, meetings have been held in the Master Studio or west assembly hall at Harding High school. Through arrangement with George A. Bowman, superintendent of schools, and the board of education, the Mimes have secured the Junior High school auditorium for its meetings during the present summer season and through the winter.

A committee on lighting has met several times this week at the auditorium in an effort to effect a more complete lighting system for the stage.

Nearly 150 announcement cards have been sent this week, to members and prospective members.

Nurse Escapes as Auto Is Struck by Train

MARTINS FERRY, June 22 — Suffering from minor injuries in the same hospital where she is employed as a nurse, Miss Lois McMannis, 25, today is recounting her narrow escape from death last night when a train struck her automobile.

Her car was carried along the track for more than a city block by the passenger train. Though the car was demolished, the young nurse escaped with slight injuries.

Viola Gentry Says She Will Try Feat Again

NEW YORK, June 22—Viola Gentry today declared that she will try again for a refuelling endurance record in a light plane.

After being up for 10 hours yesterday, Miss Gentry's plane was forced down when the refuelling operation failed.

A "blind spot" in the window of her craft prevented her from maneuvering alongside the refuelling ship and catching the gas hose.

FLIER SPEEDS EAST TO BREAK RECORD

Schoenhair Hopes To Reach New York From Los Angeles in 15 Hours

METROPOLITAN AIRPORT, Los Angeles, June 22—In an effort to smash the existing transcontinental non-stop flight record, Lee Schoenhair, veteran army and mail pilot, took off in his Lockheed Vega monoplane, Gaelrich-Silvertown, at 3.41 a. m., here today.

Schoenhair hopes to reach New York in 15 hours, lowering the existing record, established by Capt. Frank Hawks by more than three hours.

Weather conditions at the field were perfect, while last minute reports from points along Schoenhair's scheduled route indicated the absence of natural obstacles.

Fresno Police Seek Flier

FRESNO, Calif., June 22 — Lee Schoenhair, noted flier, now flying from Los Angeles to New York, was being sought by Fresno police today on a warrant charging him with issuing a bad check to a jewelry company here.

Schoenhair, according to the complaint, purchased a watch from the jewelry company while he was in Fresno recently on an endurance flight.

Flying Demonstration To Be Given at Airport

Plans are being made by H. D. Singer of the B S T Airways school here to stage another aerial demonstration here Sunday. Parachute jumps, stunt flying, and a demonstration of low speed flying will be given Sunday afternoon if weather conditions are favorable.

Mr. Singer hopes to complete arrangements today for a Marion man to make a parachute jump during the afternoon. Most of the flying will be done about 5 o'clock in the afternoon, he said.

OUT BY CHRISTMAS

Sinclair's Second Sentence To Run Concurrently with First

WASHINGTON, June 22—Harry F. Sinclair will get to spend Christmas with his folks, after all.

Justice Walter I. McCoy, in district supreme court, today signed commitment papers for the oil magnate in his latest sentence of six months for contempt of court, and specified that it should run concurrently with the remainder of his present 90-day sentence for contempt of the senate.

Allowing time off for good behavior, this will bring Sinclair out of the district jail on Dec. 22.

CHURCHES SPONSOR RELIGIOUS SERIES

Ministers Plan To Hold Meetings Without Outside Aid

MT. GILEAD, June 22—Three weeks of union services will be opened in the Presbyterian church Sunday, June 30, by the three ministers of Mt. Gilead. No person outside the three local churches will be secured to aid the ministers in the conducting of these services.

In the Methodist church Sunday morning Rev. J. C. Smith will use "The Program of Redemption" as the text for the morning service while in the evening he will talk on "Help In Times of Need." The last meeting of the Epworth League for the summer will be held in the church at 6:30 o'clock tomorrow evening.

In the Baptist church Rev. D. E. Miller will use "What Will Be the Sign of the Coming," as the text for his morning service while in the evening he will talk on the subject of "He That is Faithful in That Which is Least is Faithful in That Which is Much." The women's organization of the church will have a meeting at the church Friday afternoon.

HOOVER AND PARTY TAKE FISHING TRIP

Membership of Farm Board To Be Discussed Over Week-End

WASHINGTON, June 22—President Hoover left the capital this morning for a week-end trip to his Rapidan fishing camp in the Blue ridge.

He was accompanied by Mrs. Hoover, Secretary of Agriculture Hyde and Mark Sullivan. The party will return Monday.

Not all the time will be taken up with fishing, however, for Hyde took along a bulging brief case filled with the names of more than 400 candidates for the eight memberships on the new federal farm board. These will be considered over the week end, and announcements of some of the appointments may be made early next week.

COLUMBUS PASTOR READS SERVICE

Resident of Upper Sandusky Weds; Will Reside in Capital City

UPPER SANDUSKY, June 22—Miss Mildred Courtad, Columbus, became the bride of George Cawunder, Thursday morning at 7 o'clock at St. Francis Catholic church in Columbus. Rev. Father F. Reynolds read the single ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr and Mrs. M. J. Courtad, northeast of Upper Sandusky. She has been employed as operator for the Bell Telephone company here for the last year.

Mr. Cawunder is the son of Mrs. Herman Schmidt, Baltimore, Md. He is one of the young business men of Columbus.

Mr. and Mrs. Cawunder are at home to friends in a newly furnished apartment in Columbus.

Reduction in Freight Rates on Iron Ordered

WASHINGTON, June 22—The interstate commerce commission today ordered a general downward revision of freight rates on iron and steel in socalled official classification territory, embracing that section of the country north of the Potomac river and east of the Illinois-Indiana line, and ordered the railroads to put the new rates into effect on or before Oct. 20, next.

It is estimated that the new rates will reduce railroad revenues approximately $2,500,000 annually.

DEGREES CONFERRED

NEWS OF SPANISH FLIERS IS LACKING

Crowds Throng Roofs About Fayal Harbor Scanning Skies For Airmen

HORTA, THE AZORES, June 22—No news had been received here of the arrival of the Spanish fliers anywhere in The Azores up to 11 a. m. Azores time (8 a. m. eastern daylight saving time) today.

At that hour, the Horta wireless station had no information concerning the fliers' arrival.

Crowds thronged the roofs of buildings about the Fayal harbor scanning the sky for signs of the airmen. The huge amphibian plane "Numancia" in which the flight is being made, was heading here over the open sea from the southwestern extremity of the European continent, according to last reports.

At 7:30 o'clock last night, the plane was sighted passing over Tarifa, Spain, near the Straits of Gibraltar. It was making good speed and flying in a southwesterly direction.

The plane left Los Alcazarez aerodrome at Cartagena at about 5 o'clock yesterday under perfect weather condition. Accompanying Franco were Captains Sallardo and Ruiz De Alda and a mechanic named Madariaga.

Henry Robinson raised May 15, 1878 and Willis King raised Aug. 27, 1879 were presented with bronze medals during fitting ceremonies held at the Masonic temple here last night, by Grand Master Otto H. Holly a distinguished guest of the local lodge.

The ceremonies began at 6.30 o'clock with a dinner in the banquet room. P. B. Holmes acted as master of ceremonies. H. E. Cook presented Grand Master Holly. Past Master Marquis another distinguished guest was presented by F. P. Leonard, past master of the local lodge while A. T. Henderson, master during the year 1926 presented District Lecturer F. Tappan Rodgers another guest.

John S. Bevan, past master presented the four 50-year Masonic veterans, who after presentation of their medals were given an opportunity to review their many years of service to the local lodge.

Following the address on "Fellowship," by Past Grand Master Marquis, the principal address of the evening was delivered by Grand Master Holly.

Henry Dieffenbacher, raised to the degree of Master Mason March 4, 1885, was presented with his medal two weeks ago before leaving on an extended trip to California.

DUPONTS LEADERS IN ANTI-DRY MOVE

Head Capitalists by Donating $100,000 to Association in 18 Months

WASHINGTON, June 22—Three members of the powerful and wealthy Dupont family have assumed financial leadership in the anti-prohibition movement with contributions of more than $100,000 in the last 18 months. It was disclosed today with the filing of additional "wet" and "dry" financial statements with the clerk of the house.

Pierre, Lammot and Irenee Dupont, all outspoken in the fight against the eighteenth amendment, have given a total of $100,819.22 to the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment. Smaller contributions have been made by other members of the Dupont family.

The wealthy Delaware industrialists and capitalists have been joined by Edward Harkness, New York financier, and John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee, in making regular contributions to the largest anti-prohibition organization.

During the 18-month period the quintet made contributions as follows: Pierre Dupont, $17,015.95; Irenee Dupont, $32,108.87; Lamont Dupont, $21,000.00; Edward Harkness, $31,000.00; John J. Raskob, $31,000.00.

JURY NOT TO BE CALLED IN CASE

Crawford County Prosecutor Quiets Rumors; Says Evidence Is Lacking

BUCYRUS, June 22—A statement by Prosecutor J. Dudley Sears to the effect that the grand jury will not be called to investigate the local water and garbage scandal involving the mysterious disappearance of cash and charges of politics being played until there is more tangible evidence submitted, put to rest the rumors afloat during the past several days that the grand jury had been admonished to hold themselves in readiness for a possible call for duty next week.

According to Sears the case is not matured enough to justify the calling of the grand jury for an investigation by the May grand jury and according to Sears, unless there is more evidence presented than has been submitted at the present time the case will not be given to the September grand jury.

What took place between Mayor Schuler, Miss Hertzer and her attorney Clarence C. Ahl in a conference held at the office of the mayor Friday afternoon could not be learned today. Miss Hertzer when interviewed today stated that her attorney had advised her to make no statements. Ahl, when asked what transpired at the conference referred to the matter as a talk. Mayor Schuler will meet Miss Hertzer and Attorney Ahl at his office again Monday at which time it is expected that the matter will be threshed out.

Miss Hertzer, although she has not received a written notice of her suspension as cashier in the city water department, remains away from her office, at the order of Mayor Schuler. Miss Edith Ferrell, garbage department cashier, against whom serious charges have been made in regards to the shortages, is in full charge of both departments during the absence of Miss Hertzer.

BY ROB ELLIOTT

THIS so-called fight race in the National league hasn't got a thing on Marion's Commercial recreation ball loop after the results of last night's games are tabulated. Three teams are tied for first place with four games won out of five played and the Stars are one game behind with three games won out of the five played.

The lower division is rapidly going lower although the Prospect Firemen who were expected to make much whoopee in the Friday night league are getting whooped themselves. They are now tied for fifth with the K. of P. nine and may go lower.

Shovel Loses

The Eagles handed the Shovel outfit their initial defeat of the season by a 4-to-1 score with Francis Bacon hurling his first game of this season. The winners clinched the game in the fifth when three hits and an error scored three runs. The losers scored in the fifth on a walk and two straight hits.

The Kappas stayed in the championship run by swamping Howitzer, 13 to 2. There wasn't a whole lot to the game except the continual ring of base hits off the fraternity boys' bats. The losers got to Hunk in the last frame for their only scores of the game.

The K. of P. lodge team kept up their surprise work by nosing out the Prospect Firemen, 1 to 0. Deadon pitched one of the best games that has been seen on a local diamond this year. Only 23 men faced him in the regulation seven innings. Mounts getting both of the losers' hits. He failed to advance far enough to do any damage.

Stars Win

The Stars stayed in the race for another week at least by whanling from the A. M. E. nine, 5 to 3. It was the most runs that the colored boys have got in any one game this year. The Stars scored all their runs in the first three innings on a few hits and a few errors. The newspapermen were held to three hits in the last four frames.

The losers scored one run in the second, fifth and seventh innings. The lying runs were on base when the last out was made.

K. M. BOWER TO PLAY IN TOURNEY FINALS

Wins Semi-Final Match From T. R. Sammons Two Up, One To Play

K M Bower won his way into the finals of the Vice President's cup golf tournament being played at the Marion Country club when he defeated T. R. Sammons yesterday in the semi-final match of the upper bracket, two up and one to play.

Bower will meet the winner of the Bob Owens W. T. Jones match in the finals Sunday afternoon. Jones and Owens started to play their semi-final match yesterday but were forced to quit when word was received of the serious illness of John D. Owens.

If possible the Owens-Jones semi-final match will be played this afternoon so that the finals may be played as scheduled. However, if it is not possible to play the other semi-final, the finals of the cup flight will be postponed.

The finals of the second flight will be played Sunday afternoon regardless of whether or not the cup finals are played off.

EAGLES TRYING FOR THIRD WIN AGAINST WAKEMAN NINE HERE

Two Southpaws To Work When Red Caps Play at Lincoln

AFTER their 6-to-4 victory over the Florida Cuban Giants last Sunday the Marion Eagles will try to make it two straight when they tackle the fast Wakeman Red Caps Sunday afternoon at Lincoln. The game will start at 2:30 o'clock with Ray Smallwood handling the indicator.

The locals displayed a lot of potent hitting power in their game last Sunday and if some of this hidden dynamite in the Eagles' bats is let out the Red Cap hurlers are due for a warm reception.

Francis Bacon, who made his first appearance in Marion last Sunday, will be back at second base. Bacon failed to get in a hit in his 1929 debut but improved the work of the Marion infield 1,000 per cent.

The local's inner defense now will rank with any semi-pro team and its hitting power is enough to make any opposing hurler hesitate just a little while before he throws each ball.

Joe Conroy will be at the initial sack with Bacon and Shoup working the middle positions. Pinz Bizor will handle the hot corner. The outer gardens will likely be taken care of by Walt Baldauf, who is leading the team in hitting and is fielding perfectly, Yonikus and McCann.

Sep Good, southpaw hurler, will again be on the mound for the home nine with Bill Toomire handing his slants behind the plate. Bill started hitting last Sunday and if he has struck his stride it's going to be too bad for the visiting moundsmen Sunday.

The Wakeman team, although not very well known in this vicinity, is feared in the northern part of the state and is reputed to have one of the fastest teams in the district between Toledo and Cleveland. Most of the Red Caps are youngsters although there are just enough veterans to steady the team when a punch arrives.

SPECULATORS PAY VISIT TO REGATTA

NEW YORK, June 22—Intercollegiate rowing, hitherto just a financial step-son in the family of big money sports, suddenly went luxurious today when the noble sum of $100 for observation tickets at Poughkeepsie was asked and in some cases received from the caravan of racing troubadours returning to town from Harvard's annual defeat by Yale. Speculators who placed this prohibitive price on tickets to the Poughkeepsie event were in nowise abashed by their failure to sell out promptly. They intimated that the ante would be raised, probably by tomorrow and certainly by Monday, the day of the biggest of all races in the history of college rowing.

LOCALS SWAMPED

Marion Kiwanis Loses To Galion Yankees by 17-to-4 Score

Marion Kiwanis nine, second place winners in the Marion County American Legion Junior baseball tournament, stepped a little out of their class yesterday and were swamped by the Galion Yankees, champions of Crawford county, 17 to 4 in seven innings at Galion.

It was a twilight game and was called in the last of the eighth while the Yankees were still batting. Eight runs had already come in that inning but when the game was called the score reverted to the end of the seventh frame.

The score.

Kiwanis	012 100 0— 4 4 4
Galion	447 000 2—17 15 3

10 Horses Are Listed To Start in Latonia Derby

COVINGTON, Ky., June 22—A field of 10 horses in overnight entries was listed for the forty-seventh running of the Latonia derby today. Clyde Van Dusen, Kentucky derby winner, and African were top-heavy favorites. If Clyde Van Dusen finishes first in this event he will enrich his owners by $25,000 in added money in addition to a $5,000 bonus.

OHIO DERBY DAY

CLEVELAND, June 22—The fifth annual renewal of the Ohio derby, with $12,000 added, is to be run at the Bainbridge track in Geauga county this afternoon. Vultear is favored to win the derby today with Silverdale, Dinah Did Upset, Black Diamond, Upset Lad, War Hawk and Thistle Fyre also regarded favorably.

There has been a steady increase in the number of fountain pens made in the United States since the first one was invented in 1846, about 20,000,000 now being produced annually.

BABE'S TWO HOMERS GIVES YANKS EVEN BREAK IN OPENER

Pirates Slaughter Cubs To Take Lead in National League Race

BY LES CONKLIN

WITH "fair and warmer" predicted by the weather man, baseball's all-time attendance record of 85,265 cash customers for a single day may go by the board this afternoon when the Athletics and Yankees square off at Yankee stadium for the second double-header of their all-important series.

A record week-day crowd of 70,000 persons, including 66,145 paid admissions, saw the rivals for the American league pennant battle to an even break yesterday. The Mexican standoff was a moral victory for the Mackian maulers, who put the burden of proof even more heavily upon the champions, and a personal triumph for Babe Ruth. The feat of that interesting invalid in twice pulling the hit-and-walk play saved his mates from utter rout and thrilled thousands of fans who are expected to make the turnstiles click at a record speed today.

The rival mound aces won yesterday, Lefty Grove breezing to an 11-to-1 landslide in the opener and Waite Hoyt negotiating an 8-to-3 win in the nightcap. Today the rival pilots will shoot their right bowers, Walberg and Pipgras. The other hurlers probably will be Zachary or Heimach and Quinn or Orwoll.

Ruth's feat in driving in seven runs with a pair of homers and a single yesterday was a rarity but not a record. Al Simmons also hit two homers and six other bingles, but drove in only five tallies.

In the National league the Pirates slaughtered the Cubs, 14 to 3, taking the league lead away from the Bruins. Grimes recorded his eleventh win for the Bucs and Hack Wilson of the Cubs contributed his seventeenth homer, which was his sixth four-bagger in four days.

By taking their fourth straight game from the Phillies, 11 to 5, the Giants advanced to within less than a game of the third-place Cardinals, who were playing an exhibition contest.

Bressler's homer in the fifteenth eliminated Brooklyn's 7-to-3 victory over the Boston Braves, who had trimmed the Robins three straight. Brooklyn regained sixth place while Boston dropped to seventh.

Charley Ruffing of the Red Sox held Washington to five hits but lost, 5 to 4.

Today in Marion Markets

Groceries, Produce, Meats, Grain, Livestock

Liver is one of the most popular meat items this time of year, a local butcher said today. Probably more of this meat is sold than any other one kind during the hot summer months.

There are three livers available—pork, beef and veal.

The prices range from 12½ cents a pound quotations on the pork liver to 70 cents on veal liver. Beef liver is quoted at 25 cents.

More select homegrown potatoes range as high as 45 cents on some local markets with the bulk of them selling around 35 cents or $1.25 a bushel. New potatoes are higher, but are steadily replacing the last year supply.

New carrots, which may be had for 5 cents a bunch on many local markets, may be purchased as high as 2 bunches for 15 cents, the latter being very select varieties.

Most items were steady this morning, while butter and eggs continued without a break in price. Butter is quoted at 49 cents, eggs at 35c.

Today's Review of Yesterday's Grain

CHICAGO, June 22—Realizing sales caused a reaction in local wheat prices yesterday after an early bulge had carried values to a new high on the present movement. The close showed little net change for the day. Firmness at Winnipeg and Kansas City supported the market when it was faced with the heavy profit taking. Corn reacted early and prices ruled lower for the remainder of the session.

Closing quotations showed wheat prices ¼c lower to ⅝c higher compared with the previous close. Corn finished ⅝@⅞c lower, oats, ⅜c lower to ⅛c higher. Winnipeg wheat futures closed ⅛@⅜c higher, while Liverpool recorded advances of 2@2½d.

Foreign Markets Higher

With Liverpool more than reflecting our advance of the previous day because of bullish reports from Canada, and with Winnipeg opening around 1c higher, local prices advanced sharply in the early trading. Profit taking appeared on the bulge to new highs and prices eased, but despite the large volume of realizing the market showed excellent strength, largely because of relative firmness at Winnipeg and Kansas City, the two markets most closely related to the sections where crop damage is feared.

The reaction in the local market was looked upon as largely technical in view of the sharp advances of the past four days. While buying power was not as broad, trade continued very active and there appeared to be little disposition to take the selling side of the market other than for profit taking.

Some rains were received in Canada, but many sections are in need of heavy precipitation, reports indicate. Advices from the Southwest were more mixed, and while damage complaints were fewer, it was pointed out that rains with harvest would be apt to prove disastrous, owing to weak straw and some of the crop already down.

Estimates on yields over a wide range and reveal little more than the fact that recent discoveries of damage place the ultimate outcome of the crop in a debatable position. Figures on Oklahoma's crop vary from 30,000,000 to 50,000,000 bu. while the Kansas yield is placed at 140,000,000 to 170,000,000 bu.

Edge of Corn Market

Foreign demand was better with European markets finally recognizing the bullish sentiment in North America. Seaboard reported 2,000,000, mainly Manitobas, but including some durums, taken for export. United Kingdom and the continent were buyers. Weekly clearances, according to Bradstreet's, were 8,136,000 bu.

The edge was off the corn market, with less shipping demand, larger bookings from the country and with many traders reported going out of their lines to interest themselves in the more active wheat market. After a rally at the opening prices eased steadily, though the [illegible] extensive.

Active Week In Marion Markets Finds Prices of Many Lines on Decline

Yellow Transparents Appear in Stores Here; Sweet Corn Drops from Eight to Five Cents; Homegrown Peas Sell at 10 Cents

Last week was an active one on Marion markets, with several new items introduced, and substantial reductions reported on many seasonable fruits and vegetables.

The appearance of the first of this year's apple crop in the prelude to an apparently healthy orchard season. There is but one variety offered now, the yellow transparent, which sells at two pounds for 25 cents. These apples are small but are suitable for cooking. With their appearance, the winesap, probably the only variety to be available the entire winter and spring, will be seen but a few days longer.

Among the drastic price reductions of the week was a drop in sweet corn, on Monday. Ears selling at eight cents and two for 15 cents, dropped to five cents each, or 60 cents a dozen. These roasting ears are imported from southern states, which will continue to supply the local demand for nearly a month, when local corn may be had.

Homegrown peas, formerly quoted at 17 cents a pound, took a spill to 10 cents a pound, or three pounds for 25 cents. Head lettuce, formerly imported from southern markets at 10 and 12½ cents a head, may be purchased in the Marion county variety for five cents a head. Leaf lettuce, homegrown, continues to sell at 10 cents a pound.

New items introduced within the last week include black raspberries at 35 cents a pint. They dropped to 25 cents a quart by the end of the week. Blackberries were also new this week, opening here Monday at 25 and 20 cents a quart. As the week closed, they had reduced to 20 cents a quart for choice berries.

California plums, selling at 20 cents, and California bing cherries, at 60 cents a pound recently added to local markets, made no changes in price during the week.

Among the very few items to make gains in price during the week are lemons, formerly at 25c cents, which now sell at 30 cents. This is thought to be due to the popularity of lemons during the summer months for lemonade. California cantaloupes, introduced a few days after the southern varieties were available here, were somewhat higher, selling as high as two for 35 and 15 cents, depending on the size of the loupes.

Texas tomatoes made a drop of a cent or two, now standing at three pounds for 25 cents. Missouri tomatoes, an entirely different variety, are slightly higher, being quoted at two pounds for 25 cents.

Watermelons range between 75 cents and $1.25 after slight reductions during the week. Cauliflower ranges from 15 to 25 cents, depending on the size of the head. Cucumbers, locally grown, are selling at five and eight cents each. Hothouse varieties are still quoted around 15 cents each.
